Bishop Hill Dies Suddenly

Catholics and Protestants alike reacted with shock today at the sudden death of Most Rev. James M. Hill, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria.

The 63-year-old prelate was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning suffering from a heart attack. Despite doctors' efforts he died at 7:20 a.m.

The funeral will be held Tuesday when Pontifical Requiem Mass will be sung in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Bishop Hill had been under doctor's care at intervals since his first serious heart attack in October, 1951.

"I am deeply moved and grieved," said Most Reverend Harold E. Sexton, Anglican Archbishop of B.C., "to hear of the death of Bishop Hill whom I have been privileged to regard as a friend and brother."

Added to Community Life

On behalf of Mayor R. B. Wilson, who is in Vancouver, Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell spoke for the people of Victoria.

"He added much to the life of the community," he said, "he was respected by all and will be greatly missed."

Former Mayor P. B. Scudrah said he would be "a real loss to the community."

A close friend and confidant of the late bishop was city Alderman Michael Griffin. It was on Bishop Hill's recommendation that Ald. Griffin was a "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice," a Papal honor.

Consecrated In Maritimes

Bishop Hill was installed Sept. 6, 1946, in solemn ceremonies at St. Andrew's by Most Rev. W. M. Duke, Archbishop of Vancouver.

He had been consecrated to the Bishopric July 25 of that year in Chatham, New Brunswick, by Most Rev. Archbishop Ildebrando Antonutti, Apostolic Delegate.

His appointment coincided with the 100th anniversary of the Diocese which was erected by Papal Bull dated July 24, 1846.

Eddie In Seclusion

NEW YORK (UPI)—Singer Eddie Fisher, who has denied that his marriage to Elizabeth Taylor is on the rocks, was in seclusion "with friends" today after a two-day rest at a private East Side Hospital.

Politicos 'On Payroll Of Gamblers'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said today the U.S. justice department has strong information that major political leaders in three areas of the U.S. "are on the payroll of big-time gamblers and racketeers."

He did not elaborate, and gave no indication of the specific communities to which he was referring.

Kennedy made the statement in testifying before the Senate judiciary committee for legislation that would permit evidence to be obtained by wiretapping for use in fighting major crime and subversion.

He told the senators that the three areas are in the south, the east and the west.

"The need for legislation is urgent," he said, adding that "the existing situation with respect to wiretapping is chaotic."

Blockade Lifted

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP)—The French Army lifted its blockade of the European workers' suburbs of Bab el Oued today. Groups of men and women gathered on street corners to swap experiences as troops in half-tracks, armored cars and jeeps slowly patrolled the narrow streets.

There was no visible hostility between the troops and the inhabitants who attacked army patrols in the section last Friday killing 15 French soldiers and wounding more than 90.

After the outbreak the army sealed off the section and restricted the 50,000 inhabitants to their homes. In a house-to-house search they arrested some 7,000 persons, mostly youths and men between 16 and 40, and seized more than 1,000 arms of all kinds and large quantities of munitions and explosives.

GARBAGE MEN STRIKE

The streets of Bab el Oued were littered with garbage because Moslem garbage men had refused to enter the hostile quarter. Scores of automobiles were riddled by bullets and one had been flattened by a tank.

Many shops reopened. Shopkeepers surveyed broken plate glass windows and other wreckage left by the battle.

French flags draped in black hung from many balconies. The black was a sign of mourning for the 53 European civilians killed Monday in a demonstration organized by the right-wing Secret Army Organization in sympathy for the inhabitants of Bab el Oued.

The secret army vowed revenge against the troops and warned: "All our armed operators henceforth will be acts of justice... Nothing and no one will stop us."

More Bombs Annoy French

PARIS (Reuters)—A plastic bomb badly damaged the home of a Paris architect known for his liberal views early today following resumption of a "plastic offensive" by the right-wing terrorist Secret Army Organization Wednesday night.

Between 9 p.m. and midnight 14 explosions damaged the homes of army officers, journalists, politicians—and a movie theatre.

Inspection Central Issue In Test Ban—Kennedy

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy said today the United States cannot accept an agreement to ban nuclear tests without adequate inspection.

Kennedy told his press conference that State Secretary Rusk's reports indicate the problem of inspection has emerged as the central issue in negotiations with the Soviet Union to ban nuclear testing, and that the Russians have flatly rejected any effective inspection.

He said the United States wants a nuclear test-ban treaty and will continue to strive for one, but will insist on an adequate inspection technique. That was part of Kennedy's answer to a reporter's question on whether the U.S. now is definitely committed to going ahead with atmospheric nuclear tests in the Pacific.

He said the U.S. position is unchanged, which means his earlier statement that the tests will proceed in the absence of an agreement with Russia still stands.

BENNETT, FLEMING MEET

Breakthrough Due on Power?

BY FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett and federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming in Vancouver today were meeting in what could be their "breakthrough" negotiations on the Columbia River power project.

The premier flew to Vancouver beaming with the "good will" he brought back from Ottawa meetings with Mr. Fleming.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton earlier this month.

The climate is undoubtedly mild—and at long last it is believed B.C. and Ottawa are close to an agreement on how the Columbia should be financed.

They have to be.

Both sides are under extreme pressure.

Ottawa, facing a federal election probably in June, wants a settlement before putting the Conservative record before the people.

Premier Bennett, enmeshed in legal actions over the B.C. Electric takeover, has to get a power project going and try to fulfill his two-river policy.

The legal muddle surrounding B.C. Electric puts some doubt about the future of the Peace River scheme.

The government appears confident that legislation to be given royal assent when the B.C. session ends tonight will snip away these legal ribbons.

It expects that court challenges to last August's B.C. Electric takeover, including an order putting the company in the hands of a receiver, will be dropped.

However, this would depend on the courts.

The government's troubles won't be over if the receiver-ship is cancelled, however, as the former shareholders of B.C. Electric will probably then try to have the whole takeover legislation—this year's and last August's—declared unconstitutional.

All these factors, plus U.S. impatience to get cracking, are the background for today's Columbia talks.

It is clear that both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fleming have realized they must come to terms—and it might as well be sooner than too late.

That's what could make the meeting in Vancouver a breakthrough.

End of Session Expected Tonight

The legislature is expected to end its longest-ever session at 8 p.m. tonight.

That's the target time set by Premier Bennett.

He announced it in the House Wednesday night at the 11:50 adjournment.

The 45-day session is the longest on record. It started Jan. 25.

Last year's session was 41 sitting days. (This does not include weekends.)

Mr. Bennett won consent of the Opposition for his prorogation target—though there's no absolute guarantee that debate will be over by then.

There is one last fight to be lated—an Opposition attack on oil magnate Frank McMahon in debate on the estimates of the transport department.

Vancouver East NDP-CCF MLA Alex Macdonald will tee off this afternoon.

Apart from this there remain only the estimates of the Public Utilities Commission, the MLAs' salary vote and some Opposition resolutions to debate.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will be standing by to perform the official prorogation ceremony.

At that time he will give royal assent to the 96 bills approved by the legislature-making them law.

Reasonable Chance Of Summit Parley

GENEVA (AP)—External Affairs Minister Green flew home to Ottawa today after declaring there is "a reasonable chance of a summit meeting" as a result of the 17-power disarmament talks here.

Green, who flew home in an RCAF plane with top members of his staff, told reporters:

"I am quite pleased with the progress made in the disarmament conference so far."

"The general atmosphere is quite favorable and a constructive spirit is being shown."

"I think there is a reasonable chance of agreement on some points and a reasonable chance of a summit meeting."

"We are quite pleased with the present American-Soviet chairmanship of the conference and I am quite willing to return to the discussions any time it seems warranted."

Green was active in seeking areas of possible East-West agreement outside the framework of a general disarmament treaty in the hope of improving the international climate.

'Useful Talks'—Gromyko

GENEVA (Reuters)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today he has had "useful" talks in Geneva with State Secretary Rusk and looks forward to contacts between the United States and Russia.

Gromyko, last of the Big Three foreign ministers to leave the 17-power disarmament conference here, made the comment at the airport before flying back to Moscow.

Later, at a working session of the conference, the Russians accepted two U.S. suggestions for incorporation in a draft preamble to any disarmament treaty.

The U.S. proposals, accepted by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, urged that states abide by international agreements and refrain from actions that might cause tension. It also called for disarmament to be accompanied by "reliable procedures" for settling disputes in accordance with the United Nations charter.

WORK ON DRAFT

Delegates agreed that suggestions for the preamble should be given to the conference co-chairmen, the U.S. and Russia, by Monday. It is hoped the co-chairmen will have a final draft preamble prepared by about Wednesday.

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home returned home Tuesday after being here for almost three weeks for the disarmament parley and talks outside the conference.

Gromyko said he had a series of "useful" meetings with Rusk on Germany and Berlin, terming the latter "a question which is posed by life itself and which cannot be evaded."

He said that during the meetings with Rusk "a certain progress has been made in clarifying areas of possible agreement and disagreement."

1,100 Face Cuban Trial As Invaders

HAVANA — Soldiers surrounded nearby Principe Prison today where more than 1,000 anti-Castro prisoners captured in last year's abortive rebel invasion of Cuba were to be put to trial. Apparently the street 200 persons—across the street and relatives—gathered under the surveillance of four police cars.

The government had announced the start of the trials for 9 a.m. but there was no word on whether they actually got under way. Presumably the court was set up inside the prison itself since none of the prisoners had been removed.

Requests by prisoners for permission to attend the trials went unanswered.

Among the prisoners were Manuel Artime, civil chief of the invasion; Carlos Miro Cardona and Jose Varona, sons of two exiled counter-revolutionary leaders, and Ulises Carbo, formerly assistant director of a now-closed Havana evening newspaper, Prensa Libre.

New Argentina Chief Named

Times News Services

BUENOS AIRES—Argentina's military leaders today deposed President Arturo Frondizi and sent him to prison, triggering clashes between police and demonstrators here.

Police riot squads threw tear gas at people who demonstrated in Plaza de Mayo, the square in the heart of Buenos Aires, shouting "we want the president."

Police also sprayed the area with fire hoses as several hundred demonstrators continued to mill around the centre of the city.

Frondizi was arrested by a naval officer at his luxurious private home in a Buenos Aires suburb and driven in a motorcade of five cars to the capital's airport.

As soon as the 53-year-old president was arrested, he was rushed aboard an Argentine Air Force plane for the island of Martin Garcia, a military reservation 30 miles northeast of Buenos Aires in the Plate River estuary. It was on this island that the military held dictator Juan Peron after they overthrew him in 1955.

The three armed forces chiefs announced that Senate President Jose Maria Guido, next in line of presidential succession under the constitution, would succeed Frondizi.

After some hesitancy Guido announced that he would accept the post.

Hector Gomez Machado, who heads Frondizi's Intransigent Radical Party in the Chamber of Deputies, said he would not. Guido is also a member of the Intransigent Radicals.

It was not immediately clear whether Guido, if he took over, would have full presidential power or be a figurehead for a military junta determined to crush Peronism. The general belief was that the military would at least insist on counter-signing all decrees.

The ousting of Frondizi, whose four years in office had been beset by constant conflict with the military, was the culmination of a crisis resulting from startling and sweeping Peronist victories in congressional and provincial elections March 18.

Frondizi had allowed the Peronistas to campaign as a party for the first time since the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron in 1955. Communist and Castro supporters go behind them, while the anti-Communist forces remained split between the Intransigent Radicals and the rival People's Radicals.

The chiefs of Argentina's three armed services charged Frondizi brought about this latest crisis by bungling leadership and declared in a communique explaining the president's ouster:

Gas Alarm Lifted, Montreal Relaxes

MONTREAL (CP)—Firemen early this afternoon lifted the danger sign from a downtown area where it had been feared a disastrous explosion might result from the seepage of 4,300 gallons of gasoline into the city's sewer system.

The gasoline came from a defective tank at a service station on downtown Mountain Street.

Gas in the sewers was discovered Wednesday night and a 10-block area was cordoned off because of fears of an explosion. It wasn't until this morning that the firemen traced the gasoline to the leaking tank.

High pressure hoses were used to flush the gasoline through the sewers and into the St. Lawrence River.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

MARCH 29

A large number of posters and circulars arrived from the enterprising citizens of Lytton and Yale, telling immigrants how to get to those progressive towns, and setting forth the advantages of their road to the diggings over all other roads. Circulars also contain a table of distances and a list of refreshment stations along the route.

Judge Mathew Begbie left to hold a series of supreme court sittings throughout the colonies, including New Westminster, Douglas, Lilloet, Lytton, Yale, and Hope.

Small pox again threatens, and many citizens are taking the precaution of being vaccinated.

Managing committee of the winter lectures, of which 12 were held, today reported a net profit for the series of $12.53, which sum was turned over to the Royal Hospital.

People and Things

LONDON—A man walked into the Regents Park zoo with a bird under his arm today.

"Have you lost a vulture?" he asked.

The zoo people checked up and said they hadn't.

"Well, I found this one in the street and I wish you'd take it," said the man. Handing over the bird he walked out without leaving his name.

The vulture, which has a four-foot wing span, was placed in a cage until whoever lost it comes to get it.

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Bulletin board sign requesting quiet in the early hours in the hotel where the spring national tournament of the American Contract Bridge League is being held:

LONDON — Mrs. Muriel Thornton charged in the divorce court Wednesday that her husband, Ralph, not only took a mistress but brought her home with him.

Mrs. Thornton, 28, asked an order requiring Thornton to vacate the premises within a week and take his mistress along. Thornton, 29, protested that he and his sweetheart, 24-year-old Yvonne DeLaney, had no place else to live.

The eviction order was granted. Mrs. Thornton also has a suit for divorce pending.

TORONTO — Reeve Marie Curtis says suburban Long Branch council will take the firm of Dakroe Limited to court charged with polluting the air.

Residents of 26th Street complained that copper sulphate dust from the plant turns their property green and sometimes blue.

"We've pleaded, cajoled and threatened," the reeve said. "Now we'll go to court."

Dakroe Limited makes anti-pollution equipment.

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy was asked at a press conference today whether, after 14 months in the White House, he would seek the job if he had it to do over again and whether he would recommend it to others.

With a smile, the president replied:

"The answer to the first question is yes."

"The answer to the other is no. I don't recommend it to others — at least for a while."

LONDON — The British Broadcasting Corporation announced today some sharp censoring in its weekend television programs to meet protests against screen violence.

A spokesman said a scheduled Saturday showing of the Benny (Kid) Paret - Emile Griffith prize fight film had been cancelled, "for obvious reasons."

Paret was critically injured in the world welterweight championship fight last Saturday night in New York.

BBC also said officials would take a second look at the final episode of Charles Dickens' Oliver Twist, due to be screened Sunday as a presentation for children.

Last weekend's Oliver Twist episode brought scores of protests from mothers. Many objected to a scene showing Bill Sykes' murder of Nancy. This coming weekend, a sequence shows Sykes hanging himself.

After recent criticisms of violence on children's programs, the Home Office is to appoint a panel of experts to study the question.

PERTH, Ont. — Canvassers in a local fund-raising drive for a community centre are getting results — all kinds of results.

The volunteers reported today that in the first three days of the drive they have collected $35,000, a one-year-old heifer, several quarts of maple syrup and a Welsh mountain pony.

Objective of the drive in this Ottawa Valley rural community is $105,000.

Vinyl Tiles Haunting Minister

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant got it in the neck again Wednesday for new vinyl tiles in the legislative buildings corridors.

The tiles, laid last summer, replaced real ceramic tiles.

Cedric Cox (NDP-CCF — Burnaby) told him "The old parliament buildings deserve the best."

"I don't like to see that cheap kitchen tile."

If got "all scuffed up" and needed a plastic coating every two weeks, he said.

"You'll be lucky if it lasts five years."

Furthermore, he complained the government also used "the cheapest tile" in the new, Victoria law courts.

WANTS MUSEUM

"These are buildings we hope will be historic buildings," he said.

In addition, he put in a plug for a new museum and archives especially for Victoria.

A city this size deserves special buildings, from the government, he said.

At present only one tenth of the archives material was available to the public. "The rest is in boxes."

Mr. Chant didn't answer any of these points.

20 Feared Killed In Ship Collision

BAGHDAD (Reuters) — Twenty Iraqi sailors were reported dead or missing in a March 13 collision of a British-manned American tug with an Iranian dhow in the Persian Gulf, a U.S. embassy spokesman said here today.

Iraqi authorities detained the British crew but released them after investigations showed the Iranian dhow had violated Iraqi territorial waters, the spokesman said.

'DEFENCE STATEMENT SHORTLY'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should "not become a nuclear power," Liberal Leader Pearson said Wednesday night.

"We should not have a policy that requires us to be a nuclear power by having our soil used as a nuclear base under the national control of any other country," he said on the CBC's national free-time political television series, The Nation's Business. He appeared in a filmed interview with actor Mavor Moore.

"I believe that we should have a defence policy which will not require Canada to become a nuclear power in the sense of making, or using, or securing nuclear weapons for her forces and which would be under national control," Mr. Pearson said.

He said the Liberal party soon will make a "very detailed statement" on defence policy.

... ARGENTINE

"Enclosed within the terms of its own dilemma the government faced on one side the resurgence of the extremist forces (Peronistas) infiltrated into democracy. On the other side there was the imminent possibility of great social disturbances. He lacked strength, moral and political authority to solve the situation."

Neither the national unity nor the maintenance of public order were within the sphere of his real possibilities. Thus the armed forces received once more the responsibility of re-establishing those values."

Frondizi, whose term had two more years to run, went down fighting as he vowed he would.

The austere president, who had manoeuvred his way through 34 crises before, sought desperately to reach a compromise with the military but angrily rejected their repeated demands that he quit.

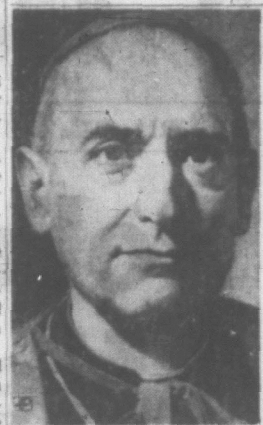

New Zealand Greet Canada Trade Group

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (CP) — New Zealand business leaders welcomed a Canadian trade mission today with the theme that the rise of the European Common Market makes increased trade between Canada and New Zealand essential.

The 14 Canadians were greeted on their arrival by air from a 16-day visit to Australia. Two members remained behind to inspect an Australian power project and were to arrive Saturday.

James Stewart of Toronto, former chairman of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the head of the mission, said the object of the visit was to show how trade could be increased both ways between Canada and New Zealand.

The visitors will have individual interviews with businessmen here Friday and will give a reception in the evening, Saturday, they will visit a sheep station and agricultural college and Sunday they leave for Wellington.

JAILED DOUKS COOK BORTSCH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Oakalla prison has varied its menu with borsch for 59 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors awaiting trial there on charges of intimidating parliament.

"We're letting one or two of them go down to the kitchen to cook. They prefer it that way," said deputy warden Mark Adams.

The radical Freedomites were arrested last Saturday in the RCMP's biggest-ever Kootenay district roundup.

Smile Show Ready for Big Season

More than 70 reservations from the United States have already been received for Jerry Gosley's 10th annual Smile Show opening at the Langham Court Theatre July 2.

Although the Smile Show is modelled on British seaside entertainment, it seems to attract more people from the U.S. than from Victoria.

Last year, during a six-week run, it attracted more than 5,000 customers—most of them from south of the border.

On Friday Jerry Gosley and his entertainers will travel down to Seattle to finish the taping of a program which will be televised during the summer to point out the attractions of Victoria as a holiday resort to visitors to the Seattle Century 21 Exhibition.

Ed Sullivan has asked to see a copy of the video tape to decide if all or part of the show is suitable for his network program.

Negotiations are also underway for the Smile Show to appear on the British liner Dominion Monarch, which is to be used as a floating hotel and night club during the Seattle world's fair.

The B.C. government travel bureau has provided publicity photographs and the Victoria Centennial Society is sponsoring the trip to Seattle.

Personnel of the Smile Show this summer will be the same as last year with the addition of Muriel Bertrand, singer and dancer.

Editor Urges Tariff Cut to Share Wealth

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada must gradually reduce trade barriers to gain her share of world wealth, author Bruce Hutchison said here today.

He told the third National Farm and Business Forum that Canada's basic problems cannot be solved without a vast expansion of international trade.

Mr. Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Daily Times, indicated this would spring partly from tariff reduction.

He said Canada must join the United States in coming to terms with the new Europe, united economically under the European Common Market.

They must do this in order to sell in its rich and rapidly growing market and compete with Communism.

Now, he said, Canada is "enjoying the shadow but not the substance of prosperity."

Canadian agriculture, he said, can never prosper unless the nation as a whole is prosperous.

And since Canada's domestic market was still the primary market for many farmers, they would never get the aid they undoubtedly deserved in sufficient volume from a depressed and stagnant economy.

Hundreds Flee Floods

CHICAGO (AP)—Hundreds of persons were temporarily homeless and property damage mounted today as flood waters from swollen rivers and streams in Nebraska and Iowa dealt damaging blows.

In Nebraska, overflows from the Northfork River spilled across some 100 blocks in the residential district and much of the business section of Norfolk, a city of some 13,200 in the northeast part of the state. In Iowa, hundreds of National guardsmen and volunteers patrolled the built-up dikes of the east side of Sioux City, a town of more than 89,000 threatened by flood waters of the Floyd River. In a flood belt west of Omaha, Neb., most of the 550 residents in the village of Waterloo had left their homes as the Elkhorn River overflowed. Several hundred persons already have been evacuated from homes in Sioux City, in the northwest part of Iowa. Others left their homes in Cherokee, a town of 7,700 on the Little Sioux River, and at Charles City, a town of more than 10,000 in northeast Iowa on the Cedar River. Thousands of acres of farm land were covered with water in the two states. Some flooding also was reported in sections of Minnesota, Missouri and Illinois.

Gardener Acquitted On Stealing Charge

Landscape gardener Hans Moholm was found not guilty Wednesday afternoon of stealing 1,500 hypericum plants from the gardens at the Canadian Tri-Services College, Royal Roads. The plants were valued at 15 cents each.

An Assize Court jury of nine men and three women returned a not-guilty verdict after Moholm had stated that he thought he had permission to move the plants from Royal Roads to another piece of National Defence property at Rocky Point.

His counsel, Donald Cameron, argued that "wrongful taking" does not necessarily mean theft, and Moholm obviously thought he was in the right.

Moholm said he was under contract to plant hypericum on the banks of munition storage bunkers at Rocky Point so that there would be a fresh green plant cover all the year round.

BECOME HAZARD The hypericum plants were to take the place of grass, since there was a danger that grass would dry out and become a fire hazard in summer. After he had planted the hypericum, they died from lack of water. To replace them he took the plants that were growing at Royal Roads and transferred them to Rocky Point.

Moholm said he had permission from Major William H. Coull, engineering supervisor, to transfer the plants. But Major Coull said he told Moholm to get permission from Bromley Quinney, head gardener at Royal Roads.

Defence counsel Cameron called witnesses who testified that there had been an exchange of plants between government establishments in the vicinity.

900 Smelter Workers Back On Job

TRAIL (CP)—An executive of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company said Wednesday the 900 employees, laid off when a terrorist blast felled a giant power pylon March 6, will be back at work sooner than expected.

R. D. Perry at Trail said the jobs may be restored by mid-April when a makeshift cable across Kootenay Lake near Nelson is expected to be completed.

The men were laid off because a shortage of power forced curtailment of various Cominco operations.

The standby line will be of smaller capacity than that carried by the 366-ton pylon. It will carry enough power to restore Sullivan Mine at Kimberley, re-open the chemical plants there and start up the Bluebell Mine at Riondel.

U.S. TROOP MOVEMENTS UNDER CURB

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (Reuters) — Gen. Bruce Clarke, commander-in-chief of the United States Army in Europe, today announced "temporary suspension" of the touring activities of the U.S. military mission personnel inside East Germany because of Soviet failure to ensure their safety.

The general termed "unacceptable" a reply received from Marshal Ivan Koniv, who commands Soviet forces in East Germany, to his protest at East German police firing on a U.S. mission car in East Germany.

NEW EVIDENCE RULED OUT

Final Pleas in Eichmann Appeal

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's supreme court today rejected motions by Adolf Eichmann's lawyer to hear new witnesses in the Nazi official's behalf and retired to frame its verdict on his appeal against the death sentence.

The high court handed down its ruling on the defence motions only 30 minutes after Eichmann's West German counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius, completed his final plea to save the condemned Gestapo officer from the gallows.

The court is expected to take about a month to write the verdict. If it rejects Eichmann's appeal, he has one more possible escape, an appeal for clemency to Israeli President Lzhak Ben-Zvi.

Servatius in his final argument urged the supreme court to accept Eichmann as a "man caught in the whirlpool of political events" and lift the death sentence given him as a chief accomplice in the Nazi murder of 6,000,000 Jews.

Servatius again made these contentions, all of them raised in Eichmann's trial last summer:

1. Israel had no legal right to try Eichmann.
2. Eichmann was illegally brought to Israel from Argentina for trial.
3. The prosecution presented only incriminating excerpts from many captured Nazi documents.
4. The prosecution and the lower court which condemned Eichmann lost sight of his position in the organizational structure of the security police — that of a lieutenant-colonel bound by oath to obey orders.

5. The prosecution wrongfully depicted Eichmann as having equal footing with superior officers of far higher rank who had the real responsibility for the extermination of the Jews.
6. Eichmann only dealt with the technical implementation of the deportation of Jews to the death camps and had no jurisdiction over what happened at the camps.
7. Much of the evidence present against Eichmann, including the famous interviews he gave to Dutch journalist Wilhelm Sassen in Argentina, "cannot be accepted as truthful evidence."

Only two things should be considered, in the case: Eichmann's responsibility to his oath and the necessity for loyalty to the German state.

More Wheat to Red China

CANADIANS SHOULD BE gratified by the government's announcement of another wheat sale to Red China—this time for $75 million.

On humanitarian grounds it is good to know that part of our surplus is going to feed the hungry. On practical grounds it is satisfying to learn that we will be paid for the wheat. On ideological grounds it indicates that Canada is willing to trade, even though it does not give formal recognition to the Peking regime.

But little has transpired in the last year to suggest that this trade is much, if anything, more than emergency buying by Red China. There is not, at this point, any assurance that an abiding market is being established and that the people of Red China are changing their staple diet from rice, when they can get it, to the cereals of this country. That could happen, and would be a welcome development. It is still too early to justify any expectation of that sort.

Not is there any substantial change in Canadian trading patterns which would indicate the opening of a huge new Red Chinese market to Canada.

The point has been made before that China produces few commodities which Canada is prepared to accept in volume. And unless China has a substantial supply of currency readily convertible into dollars, it seems obvious that the country cannot continue to buy from Canada unless Canada buys from her.

Red China sells to this country a certain volume of walnuts, peanuts and handicrafts. The market for such commodities is limited. Red China does produce textiles which our citizens might purchase, given the chance.

But how can Canada encourage textiles from Red China when it raises barriers against the same goods from Japan, which buys more from us than it sells to us and is prevented from selling more here by so-called "voluntary" quotas? Moreover, how could Red Chinese textiles get in when the government, to protect eastern Canadian manufacturers, makes it difficult even for Britain to exploit this market?

Under the circumstances, the new wheat deal with China, cheering as it is, cannot be viewed as more than an emergency measure. Stable trade cannot be built on such a foundation. There may, of course, be an opportunity to explore the Chinese market more fully. But any such exploration should be part of a much broader effort in Canada to expand its trade generally—importing as well as exporting. The Diefenbaker Government policies have not yet suggested any willingness to follow such a course.

The Boys' Club Report

IN THE PHRASE OF ITS SECRETARY, in his first annual report, the Boys' Club of Victoria has evolved as "a happy club." It has also proved eminently successful, and is filling a useful need in this community.

Thanks to the generosity of Col. and Mrs. R. O. Bull, the club was started 13 months ago with the aim of enrolling 250 boys. It actually listed 761 in its first year. Of these, 292 were under 11 years of age; 326 were between the ages of 11 and 13; and 143 were between 14 and 18.

In the abandoned firehall on Yates Street, they were taught gymnastics, games, handicrafts, photography and other pursuits. A willing group of volunteers turned out to assist in the training.

In his first annual report, Col. Bull took a look into the future and expressed two hopes. One was that the city of Victoria, which was helpful in setting up the club, would follow the example of other Canadian cities and make the Yates Street property available to the Boys' Club, permanently. The second was that a service club would come forward, accept the Club as a project, and raise funds over a five-year program which would provide a full-size gymnasium, a workshop, and facilities for at least 500 members.

The Boys' Club, with a keen directorate and inspired leadership, has been well and truly launched in this area. As in many other Canadian cities, it is keeping youngsters off the streets and providing helpful guidance to boys in their formative years. It is to be hoped that Col. Bull's vision of future expansion and development will be realized.

Well Done, Totems

AN AURA OF PAST GRANDEUR has been rekindled to glow warmly around Victoria High School basketball Totems as a result of their provincial championship victory at the University of British Columbia gymnasium last weekend.

To coach George "Porky" Andrews the event must have revived events of earlier glory when Victoria was the game's capital in Canada and when he was a star on one of the super teams.

From Victoria High a sport's generation ago came the Chapmans, the Patricks and Doug Peden with other black and gold graduates, to carry the Blue Ribbons and Dominions to national eminence in the game. And from Victoria High came "Porky" to star along with Peden and Norm Baker for the great Pat Bay air force team.

Coach Andrews has labored long in that incubator of champions to produce good basketball players and the present provincial high school title-holders. His proteges—either a team without stars or all of them stars, as the coach sees it—will be the first to credit him with this accomplishment.

Vision of the Future

THE PROSPECT THAT THE federal government may build a centre for oceanographic research on the Victoria College campus is a most attractive one. Such a development, probably to cost several million dollars and commence three years from now, would associate the College with a major scientific project and provide exceptional facilities for advanced study.

The proposal is one more evidence that an active nucleus such as the College now presents, and the wider possibilities of the enlarged campus, will attract support and associated endeavors in many different fields. The current offer of the Victoria Jaycees to provide nuclear experimentation facilities is a case in point. We may expect further proposals from time to time. Meanwhile the hint of future development from Ottawa is very encouraging.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Instead of Sherwood

In all the hullabaloo about building a phony medieval castle at the Gorge in the wrong kind of forest, and of all things, using Viking long boats for transportation, no one has suggested a possible alternative — rebuilding what was there in the first place—namely, an Indian village.

If Indians do the work it shouldn't cost too much, and the Provincial Museum has enough Indian relics packed away for lack of room to display them to provide for half a dozen villages of different tribes.

Mrs. Sam Joseph, of the Songhees Reserve, has been training a group of children in the old tribal dances. Mr. George Clutesi has a group of men dancers in Alberni. Mrs. Sam Joseph herself sings songs that she learned as a 12-year-old girl from a 100-year-old woman of the Ntinnat tribe. Both she and Mr. Clutesi are anxious to revive an interest amongst their own people in their own customs and way of life.

There could be a place where articles of Indian handicraft could be sold. One hundred years ago, the accepted way to entertain visiting celebrities was to take them for a paddle up the Gorge, in an Indian canoe. There is probably no one left who could build a real dug-out, but there are enough old ones around to use as models for reasonably accurate facsimiles.

Seeing we have robbed the Indians of practically everything they once possessed, perhaps they could be approached to see if they would be interested in trying to restore a small replica of their former lives.

The plan has one great disadvantage—the Indians might make a little bit of money out of it, instead of the "fast buck" boys.

Practical Nurses

A recent news item quoted me as advocating the setting up of a school of instruction for practical nurses, as called for in the Practical Nurses Act passed by the Legislature in April, 1951. This happens to be contrary to my remarks in the Legislature, and has resulted in phone calls and letters asking if I do not know that training is being given in our Vocational Schools.

With some detail I went into the matter of training. I stated that more than 200 persons are now taking practical nursing training in Victoria, Nanaimo and Vancouver institutions. I did ask that the Act be implemented to give certification and recognition of professional status, but said that the Act would have to be amended, as a special school of instruction was not now necessary. Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and British Columbia, are the only provinces in Canada which do not grant proper certification.

Practical nurses fill an important place in the care of our ill. They leave graduate nurses free for the duties which only they can perform. This is a good profession in which to absorb our young native Indian girls who find it so difficult to find employment, and some older persons with former training and other ability, to provide necessary care in our acute-care hospitals.

our nursing homes, and in looking after our truly helpless chronically ill in home or hospital.

Our nursing aides should be certified as practical nurses. Many are now taking the formal training in our vocational schools, but are granted no proper certification. The Act states that a Board of Examiners may issue a licence where the applicant has met all the requirements of the Act and its regulations, if satisfied he or she is a suitable person. The board may also licence any one who has practised outside of B.C., if she is able to pass the examination.

Granting professional status to Practical Nurses, as provided by the Act, is long past due.

'Save Foul Bay'

With the birth of University Way we lose another of our delightful old names, and a little more of the picturesque character of old Victoria.

Foul Bay was so marked on the old sea charts because it was a foul anchorage, with rocks and tides to be avoided. The delightful bay bore this name proudly for many years. The road from the old Shotbolt home to the bay was given the same name, and as the city grew and the road lengthened the name continued with it.

The people who built their stately homes (some of the finest in the city) along it, delighted in the distinctive name. Many years ago a new corner asked council to change the spelling to Fowl Bay, but the older residents protested loudly. Not so long ago the bay's name was changed to Gonzales — as though the huge mass of rock that bears his name were not monument enough! And now we are to lose Foul Bay Road.

The pioneer residents are no longer with us to raise a protest, and so another link with the past must fade away. London's odd street names have lived for centuries. Our eastern provinces delight in their quaint and lovely place names. But here one of our few remaining old names is not to survive the hundredth birthday.

By all means name some new street near the campus University Way—but why change the name of a road four or five miles away?

Couldn't the old historic part, the original trail, from Fairfield Road to the Bay, retain the old name? and could the bay itself possibly have its old name back? I suppose I am a sentimental dreamer!

Roaming Dogs

The article in your issue of the 27th inst. about a dog obstructing a constable who was about to place a yellow mark on a car tire, draws attention to the roaming dog nuisance, which the council tolerates although there is a bylaw against roaming dogs.

One wonders whether the owner was even charged for having a dog on the street that was not under control. If not, why not?

ENFORCE THE BYLAW.

Cried a Little, Too

To those people who value fairness, justice, decency and the brotherhood of man as so poignantly illustrated by Christ, the front page editorial of March 20 in your paper must have stimulated a strong uplifting glow when or if they were fortunate enough to read it. Even a non-shareholder such as myself could readily see the cuteness of such a piece of expedient legislation as your editorial declares.

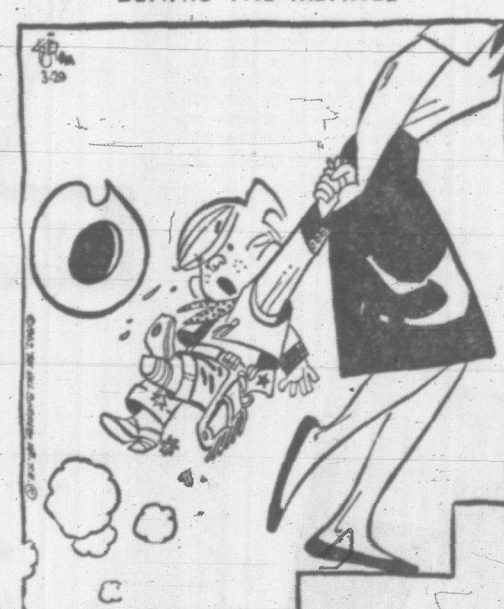

I am a shareholder in the cause of labor and as such can remember the expediency used in our same parliament to check the way of democracy when Bill 42 was passed prohibiting organized labor from contributing funds to any political party. The reason they used in its passing was sheer alibi as we all know. Even the Times must know.

It knew at the time of passing that not one single employee's vote was to be jeopardized by union support of any one party. It knew as well as any thinking person must have known that it would give a certain political party more equal power to express its views in open competition with its rivals. Is this not the essence of our democratic way of doing things? It knows very well it is. And it knew then at the time of the passing of Bill 42.

If my memory serves me right, however, the Times editorial in that sad day for justice, sang quite a different tune. It leaned upon the alibi and we in labor who trusted in the cause of democracy cried a little too.

Is this an example of Liberal sentiment as illustrated by the Times? WOODWORKER.

OTTAWA:

Quiet Room

BY MAURICE WESTERN

THE House of Commons last week turned briefly aside from its studies of post offices and bridge repairs to sample a tantalizing historical mystery. For many months work crews with drills and hammers have been busy about the reconstruction of the West Block. This building, a relic of the old Province of Canada, was erected between 1855 and 1860. (The structure itself is something of a mystery to engineers who are not sure how it ever managed to hold together.)

When the work is completed, an office on the second floor is to become Parliament's "Quiet Room" for prayer and meditation.

Dispassionate observers in the press gallery are agreed that Parliament can do with both.

What intrigues the House of Commons is the claim that the room was once the office of Sir John A. Macdonald. In many ways, it deserves the distinction. It is beautifully paneled. The walls are adorned with crests of the confederating provinces carved in oak.

If the Old Chieftain ever gazed out from the great window, he must have enjoyed an uninterrupted view westwards to the Chaudiere Falls. Even better, the office opens on to a "secret" spiral stairway (long hidden behind a plaster wall). Enraptured Conservative ministers are convinced that Sir John used this as a convenient escape route when he wished to avoid favor-seekers calling at the front office.

It sounds almost too good to be true. And so it is, according to Mr. J. W. Pickersgill. In fact, he informed a dismayed House, "Sir John A. Macdonald never had an office in the West Block at all."

This is not, as one might suppose, a simple dispute between a Liberal historian and Conservatives. For, as it turns out, the original discoverer of Sir John's "office" was the former Liberal minister of fisheries, Mr. James Sinclair. Prior to the change of government, Mr. Sinclair presided over his vast watery empire from this West Block eminence. Noting a peculiarity in the wall, he chipped away the plaster and exposed its secret.

An investigation was then undertaken by Mr. W. Kaye Lamb, the dominion archivist and national librarian. It was this inquiry which Mr. Pickersgill had in mind. The result was indecisive.

Sir John, in addition to being prime minister, was at various times minister of Indian affairs and minister of railways. As prime minister, his office was in the East Block. There were, however, Indian affairs and railway offices in the West Block.

Did Sir John, when confronted with departmental business, hike across to the West Block (and, if so, did he occupy the mystery room?) or did the business come to him?

In the absence of records neither case can be proved. Parliament is left with its mystery.

Mr. Pickersgill, although unconvinced that the spirit of Old Tomorrow will hover about Conservatives at prayer, has intrigued Liberals with a tantalizing suggestion of his own.

"I think," he told the House, "it may have been Alexander Mackenzie, the first Liberal prime minister, who was also minister of public works, who had an office there."

The prospect is, therefore, that the room may be rather crowded on both the terrestrial and spiritual planes.

Down to the Question of Whether It Is Desirable to Keep the UN in Business

By Walter Lippmann, from Washington

RECENTLY, the UN has come under sharp criticism from some of its old supporters, notably Sen. Aiken and Sen. Jackson. Their criticism comes at a time when the UN itself may be said to be successful but insolvent, to be achieving a great purpose but bankrupting itself in the process.

The UN is on the way to being successful in its most difficult experiment, which has been to pacify the Congo and prevent a confrontation of the great powers. It is insolvent because a group of nations, and particularly the Soviet Union and France, are refusing to pay their share of the cost of the experiment.

In this condition of affairs the Senate is about to debate and vote on the proposal to fund the deficit and provide working capital to keep the UN afloat during the next year or so.

With Sen. Aiken, who is the chief critic of the bond plan, there can be no dispute when he says that "the sickness of the UN is not financial alone. . . . It can be cured only by drastic action at an early date—action which will continue the UN as a truly multilateral organization and not permit it to become constantly dependent upon the beneficence of the United States."

This is the precise reason why the bond plan was put forth by our officials and it is the crucial reason why so many of us favor the plan.

There is no other plan before us which deals directly with the problem of making all the members of the UN pay their share of operations like the Congo and Palestine, and ending the grossly corrupting fact that we now pay nearly 50 per cent of the cost of these operations. For although we would loan one-half of the money, we would bear only one-third of the cost of bond retirement.

"The sickness of the UN" is that some members are refusing to pay their assessments, other members cannot pay them, and others are a mixed bag of countries who want to pay, cannot pay, and are waiting to see.

As of Feb. 28, 1962, the UN was owed $77 million on assessments for Palestine and the Congo. The chief countries refusing to pay were the Soviet Union and the East European satellites, France, Belgium, and Cuba. Their total delinquency was $56 million, of which $44 million was owed by the Communist bloc, about $10 million by France and Belgium, and about one-half million by Cuba. Besides this, nearly $8 million was in default by Nationalist China, not because it refuses to pay but because it cannot.

This accounts for over 80 per cent of the deficit. The problem of curing the sickness of the UN is to find ways of compelling, inducing, and enabling all members to pay their share. The more I have studied this problem with its massive documentation, the more I am convinced that if there is any solution, the bond plan will meet the problem.

How will it solve the problem? The plan is based on the assumption that during the summer the World Court will declare in an advisory opinion (which has been requested by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly) that assessments to pay for operations like Palestine and the Congo are—within Article 17 of the Charter—"expenses of the organization" which "shall be borne by the members as apportioned by the General Assembly."

Sen. Aiken, I might say at once, is one of those who confidently believe that this will be the ruling of the World Court. If it is not the ruling, then all bets are off and there is no way now in sight by which the special operations of the UN can be financed.

If, however, it is the ruling, then Article 19 of the Charter begins to bite. A member "shall have no vote in the General Assembly if the amount of its arrears equals or exceeds the amount of the contributions due from it for the preceding two full years."

Unless the UN figures are wrong, this will mean, we believe, that if the Soviet Union continues to refuse to pay, it will in 1964 be disqualified to vote in the General Assembly.

There have been some misunderstandings in the Senate on this crucial point. For example, Sen. Keating of New York asked, "If the Soviet Union . . . should decide that it will not pay its assessed portion of these operations, would (it) not lose its right to vote until the period of many, many years had passed," perhaps, said Sen. Keating, "ten or twenty or thirty years?"

Sen. Aiken's answer that this was indeed the case was not correct—unless he assumed an unfavorable Court decision. In 1963 the sum of the Soviet Union's past two year's assessments will be nearly $50 million and if it rejects the expected ruling of the World Court, it will be $46 million in arrears. Its margin of safety will be down to $3.6 million.

In the following year, 1964, the Soviet Union's assessments for the past two years will be down to $37 million. But its delinquency will be $46 million and it will be $9 million to the bad, even if it pays its full regular budget assessment. Under the Charter the Soviet Union will lose its vote in the General Assembly.

This is the compulsion behind the UN bond plan. There is also a moral compulsion. Some of the deliberate delinquents, for example France, argue that the General Assembly has no legal power to raise money for operations like the Congo. Presumably, if the World Court decides against the French contention, France as a law-abiding country will pay up.

What the Soviet Union will do is anybody's guess.

Last but not least, the bond plan makes it easy for every member to participate. It does this by keeping the interest low and making the bonds payable over a long time. This is the way, if there is a way, to make the UN that "truly multi-lateral organization," which Sen. Aiken wants it to be.

Finally, it has been said, that we ought not to lend money to the UN at 2 per cent when the money our government borrows costs 4 per cent. The answer to this is that frequently "when we have felt that the national interest was involved, we have lent money at 2 per cent."

Immediately after the Second World War we loaned the British $4 billion at 2 per cent. The lend-lease settlements were of the basis of 2 per cent. In the Marshall Plan we loaned money at 2.5 per cent. Our development loans through the Development Loan Fund and the Foreign Aid organizations are at "low or no interest."

So it all comes down to the question of whether it is desirable to keep the UN in business as an organization able to deal with certain kinds of threats to the peace of the world.

REPORTING

OTTAWA — Liberal and New Democrat opposition MPs spent some three hours the other day wheeling, cajoling, begging, demanding, and storming to be informed what kind of armament would be provided for the CF-104.

The CF-104 is the supersonic strike-reconnaissance aircraft being manufactured by Canadair Ltd. of Montreal for eight RCAF squadrons in Europe. This is a $450 million program, of which $350 millions have already been spent or allocated. The first CF-104s are tentatively scheduled for delivery next March.

"We have the right," said Liberal leader Pearson to a defence minister sitting stolidly silent, "to find out from the government how these planes are going to be armed and equipped."

All the wheeling and storming failed to elicit the nugget of information the opposition sought, namely, that the Conservative administration intends to arm these aircraft with nuclear warheads. Defence Minister Harkness let out dribs and drabs of information, some of it not entirely correct. The 104, he said, will carry air-to-ground missiles that may be nuclear or non-nuclear; it will be equipped to take "eight different types of weapons," and it is "self-evident" that nuclear weapons are "more effective" than non-nuclear weapons.

The minister was noticeably off base in speaking loosely of the 104, instead of the specific 104 the RCAF will get, namely the CF-104. He said the U.S. had used the 104 with non-atomic weapons. But he didn't explain that was the F-104A, a different airplane without, for example, the CF-104's automatic pilot and fire control system, and with a less powerful engine.

His statement that the 104 had been used with conventional missiles (actually heat-seeking Sidewinders) is like a statement that the color of human eyes is blue.

In fact, and despite Mr. Harkness, the CF-104 can be fitted with three types of weapons.

The one it will get is the Bull Pup. This is a U.S. mass-produced economy air-to-ground missile, powered with a rocket motor, and radio-controlled by the CF-104 pilot, who can direct it to climb, fly level or dive, although he cannot alter its direction to left or right. The Bull Pup may carry a conventional or a nuclear charge.

A weapon the CF-104 may get is an underwing high explosive bomb.

A weapon the CF-104 won't get is General Electric's Vulcan gun. This has six revolving barrels — in principle, like the Gatling gun of Boer War days. In place of the Vulcan, our 104s will carry extra fuel.

An informed guess is that the CF-104 will go to Europe unarmed, there to be fitted with Bull Pups — nuclear or otherwise as exigencies require. As Harkness told the Commons, "securing armaments for them is not an urgent matter."

More urgent, politically and otherwise, is picking an engine for the CL-41 jet trainer. There's a real fight over this, with Pratt and Whitney of Montreal pushing its newly-designed JT-12, and Orenda Engines Ltd. of Toronto offering General Electric's J-85.

For several reasons, and perhaps not least that Ontario Tory politicians want part of this CL-41 contract for their province, it appears that the jet trainer will be equipped with the Orenda-made G.E. engine.

Clash Sure, Says Indonesia; New Guinea Talks Dropped

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A high Indonesian official today discouraged the possibility of further talks with the Dutch on West New Guinea and said a military clash is inevitable.

The official said Indonesia broke off the U.S.-sponsored talks last week because the Dutch bluntly declared they were not prepared to accept Indonesia's demand for a transfer of administration of the Dutch-held territory Indonesia claims.

Indonesia does not believe a resumption of talks would serve any purpose because of the "hostile" attitude of the Dutch government, the official said. He added that the dispatch of Dutch warships and troops to New Guinea this week is proof that the Dutch consider "us their enemy." The Dutch said they sent the reinforcements to counter stepped-up Indonesian infiltration of the territory.

URGED TO ATTACK
The Indonesian press has unanimously urged President Sukarno not to "waste time" with further negotiations but to reply to the Dutch "with the language of guns."

Sukarno already has sent Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, defence minister and chief of the armed forces, to the East Indonesian islands close to West New Guinea. Troops are reported to be pouring into East Indonesia, the jumping-off point for any invasion.

also is stepping up its arms shipments to Indonesia.

The Dutch also continued their military buildup. A Dutch KLM DC8 jet airliner carrying 71 marines from Curacao passed through Lima, Peru, en route to New Guinea via the French Pacific island of Tahiti. A daily planeload of troops is expected to take that route for the next week. Another 136 Dutch marines arrived in Curacao by plane Wednesday night from Amsterdam.

The 1,600-ton Dutch navy ship Snellius steamed out of Hong Kong Wednesday and headed toward New Guinea. A Dutch spokesman said the ship, a survey vessel, carries "more scientific equipment than guns."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Bubble Gum Bursts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a person grows older, his brain tends to lose its elasticity so that he has trouble making rapid mental adjustments.

For instance, when I was in school I formed an impression of what the term "trust-busting" means. For me, it evoked an image of Theodore Roosevelt tangling with the tycoons of oil, steel, railroads and private utilities.

I have tried to keep my thinking flexible, but apparently my brain cells have already started to ossify. At any rate, I found it rather difficult to associate trust-busting with bubble gum.

A feeling that the world had passed me by came upon me last month when the federal trade commission charged that the largest bubble gum company in the U.S. had cornered the market on baseball picture cards.

It came upon me again last week when the company formally denied that it had illegally monopolized the picture card industry to the detriment of other bubble gum magnates.

I was aware, of course, that the Kennedy administration had given the government a youthful slant. But this seemed to be carrying it back to adolescence.

My first thought was that Caroline had more influence than I had given her credit for.

That was no explanation, however, for the FTC is an independent agency whose quasi-judicial powers are not subject to White House direction.

Seeking enlightenment, I contacted a little leaguer of my acquaintance, whom I knew to be addicted to bubble gum.

"Yeah, I know about it," he said. "You get these cards in a package of bubble gum. They have pictures of ball players on them."

"You can trade cards with the other guys until you get the pictures you want. In this neighborhood, one Roger Maris is worth two Duke Sniders and a Willie Mays."

"Do you feel," I said, "that there is free and open competition in the bubble gum industry?"

"You got me there, pal," he replied. "I just chew the stuff."

"Well," I said, "you've heard of Teddy Roosevelt, haven't you?"

"Sure," he said. "He used to be an outfielder for the Boston Red Sox."

I think now that I am beginning to understand the bubble gum anti-trust case. I mean, wasn't Roosevelt the one who said, "Speak softly but carry a big bat?"

LONDON LETTER

Theatre Treats for Visitors

LONDON—Those of you coming over next summer for a visit who are interested in the theatre have a new treat in store for you.

You'll be able to see, during July, Sir Laurence Olivier and the new Lady Olivier (Joan Plowright) acting together at the latest addition to Britain's Theatre Festivals — the one at the just built $300,000 1,400-seat, hexagonal amphitheatre at Chichester, Sussex.

Sir Laurence is director of the festival and he has just announced his star-studded line-up of performers, which besides himself and his wife includes: Sir Michael Redgrave, Sir Lewis Casson, Dame Sybil Thorneike, Fay Compton, Joan Greenwood, John Neville and Nicholas Hanne.

But my feeling is that you'll have to be very much of a culture-vulture to stomach the three plays Sir Laurence has chosen.

John Fletcher's The Chances was first put on in 1638 and hasn't been staged since 1808. John Ford's The Broken Heart, a 1633 offering, was last put on in London in 1904. Chekov's Uncle Vanya, written only 70 years ago, completes the trio on a modern note.

Anne Wigley, whose claim to fame in these parts is her annual hit-parade of Christian names culled from birth announcements in the press, has given her list of favorites for 1961.

For the girls the name of Anne moves from second place in the previous year to top. Then comes Elizabeth, third in 1960, followed by Jane, the previous leader. Margaret, Mary, Susan and Helen trail on afterwards.

John, as always, is "way out on top among the boys, with Andrew moving from fourth to second for obvious reasons. Next follow David, Richard, Peter, Michael and Mark.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mental patient, John Groeniger, 35, Wednesday confessed strangling a six-year-old with his hands and dumping her nude body behind oil drums outside an auto repair shop, police said.
The child, Carol McAllister, disappeared Tuesday afternoon while roller skating near her home in the suburban Long Island community of Hollis.

Fountain Finish Hoped by June 1

Completion of B.C.'s $45,000 historical fountain — central motif of the planned government precinct in James Bay — is aimed at early June, Works Minister W. N. Chant said Wednesday.

He was replying to a question by Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF — Grand Forks-Greenwood) in debate on his salary, when she referred to the new fountain "at the back of the buildings."

Mr. Chant said although the fountain is now at the portals of Connaught Library, "the overall plan will see it as the centre of the precinct."

Original objective for completion of the fountain, which symbolizes the province's native Indian heritage, was May 21.

WAITING FOR ANIMALS

"But the greatest problem is getting the bronze animals here in time," Mr. Chant explained.

"We are not sure they will be here as soon as desired, but we are hoping for June 1 at the latest."

A British firm is casting the animals which will form the motif of the fountain at centre and around the cut stone perimeter.

Workers are now installing an underground pumphouse for recirculation of the fountain sprays. The basin itself and concrete walks with bordering shrubbery are already completed.

Mrs. Haggen said she had been shown a model of the completed fountain and felt it is "going to be a delightful addition to our government precinct."

The member also asked how far plans for a new provincial museum had advanced.

The minister said a preliminary study had been done, but outside of that he had no information.

Militia Courses, Jets Boost Defence Cost

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1961-62 fiscal year ends Saturday and the defence department now calculates its expenditures will be $1,631,857,000 for the year.

Officials say this amount is $93,890,724 more than in 1960-61 and $99,352,454 more than in 1959-60.

The calculated $1,631,000,000 outlay is $16,220,000 more than the original estimate for 1961-62 defence spending which was made in early 1961.

There were two main reasons for the increase: $35,000,000 more for army operations and maintenance mostly because of the militia survival training courses; and $31,000,000 more for RCAF aircraft and engines, chiefly the CF-104 low-level jet bomber.

BUDGET CLIMBS

The estimated defence budget for the fiscal year which begins Sunday is $1,675,792,175. This is $60,000,000 more than the original estimate for 1961-62 and $44,000,000 higher than what now is calculated as the actual expenditures for the fiscal year now ending.

Most of this increase will be for higher maintenance costs of the armed forces whose manpower strength is being bolstered by 15,000 more men to a total of 135,000 personnel.

The costliest program will continue to be the CF-104 which now is scheduled to reach the RCAF air division in Europe next year. Expenditures are estimated at $117,700,000 in 1962-63 against $174,000,000 in the fiscal year just ending.

The Newman Alumnae Association will meet Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Dominion Hotel to continue the seminar, "Mater et Magistra."

PAINTED TOTEMS SOUGHT

A Peace River MLA wants Thunderbird Park totems here painted so tourists can take nice colored pictures.

But Recreation Minister Earle Westwood doesn't think so.

Stan Carnell (SC-South Peace) made the suggestion in the Legislature Wednesday night.

He said Mr. Westwood's department should spend a few dollars on paint "because tourists use colored film."

Mr. Westwood replied that the provincial museum looks after the park, and wants to keep the totem poles in a "natural" state.

NOTICE TO BUS PASSENGERS RICHARDSON ROUTE

Joint Drive On To Save Fishing

Efforts to rehabilitate and conservation debate for provincial government leadership in making the inlet and its headwaters "one of the finest sports fishing areas."

He asked during recreation night by Saanich MLA John Tisdalle.

Not Guilty Plea
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Billy Gray, 24, who portrays the young son Bud in the Father Knows Best television series, has pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunken driving. He will face a jury trial April 23 and the same day he is to appear for preliminary hearing on a charge of possessing marijuana.

AMOUNT NOT SET

Camp Fee Sure For B.C. Parks

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood says the cabinet hasn't decided how much to charge campers in provincial parks—but he definitely wants a fee.

He was answering Leo Nimick (NDP-CCF—Cranbrook) in the legislature Wednesday night.

A $2 fee per night after two free nights was tried out in four major parks last summer.

Mr. Nimick said there should be a token registration fee only, good for a week of camping.

A general fee system per night was "going to drive those campers out into the bush," he said.

Mr. Westwood said his department was still gathering data from other provinces and states.

"The decision has not been made as yet. It must be made at the cabinet level."

"Certainly the way I feel about it there should be a change and there should be a limit to stay."

The money, he pledged was going to be ploughed into general park development.

SPOT GAME FROM PLANES

Tighter Control Asked Of Air-Borne Sportsmen

Big game spotting from low-flying aircraft should be stamped out in B.C., Skeena-Socred Dudley Little urged in the House Wednesday night.

He mentioned in particular planes carrying sportsmen from the United States, flying over the border "out of season, with guns and within a few hours flying north, out of reach of conservation officers, catching fish and killing game indiscriminately."

Mr. Little told Recreation and Conservation Minister Earl Westwood during debate on the minister's salary that the aircraft should be required to register arms and their intended base of operations.

CARRY GUIDE
The sportsmen should be required to carry a licensed guide so that there would be a measure of control over their hunting by conservation officers.

He referred to the case last year of an American party that flew in and shot a moose out of season in the Omineca area, and the difficulty in obtaining a conviction against them.

Carl Sheldford (SC—Omineca) suggested planes should check at local game stations, perhaps via the point at which they register their border crossing.

Anti-Semitism 'Built-In Part' Of U.S. Living

NEW YORK (AP)—Anti-Semitism has become "virtually a built-in part of modern American living," says the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith.

The statement is included in a review of anti-Jewish discrimination which will be published under the title Some of My Best Friends.

Although American Jews have found greater opportunity in the United States than anywhere else in history, the report said, "anti-Semitism lies imbedded today in the American subconscious, rising to the surface in times of tension."

Last year, over 150,880 clinical tests for the Rh factor were carried out at Red Cross laboratories. This is a free service for expectant mothers.

Better Access Urged For Strathcona Area

The B.C. government was urged Wednesday night to sell choice forest land on the edge of Strathcona Park and use the money to develop the park recreation area.

The proposal came in the legislature from Dan Campbell (SC-Comox).

He said the park must be developed and more public access given.

The best way would be to cut down the boundaries of the park—on central Vancouver Island—and sell timber to pay for a development program.

HIGHWAY DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Campbell also called for recreational development along the new highways being built between Campbell River and Kelsey Bay.

He said the government should build a gateway at the beginning of the road with a sign saying "Forestry and Recreation Live Together."

A parks branch attendant could hand out maps and special information about camps and trails, he said.

Mr. Campbell also suggested development of new campsites on the island in the Nimpkish forest area.

Access Due On Cowichan By April

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood Wednesday night said he expects there will be special public access for fishing on the Cowichan River by April.

He was answering a plea from Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, MLA for Cowichan-Newcastle in the legislature.

"We have been working on this," said Mr. Westwood.

There will be a meeting in April between recreation officials and local fish and game organizations, said Mr. Westwood.

"We estimate four miles of river frontage will be arranged by that time."

Price of Gold Will Hold Firm

BY GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Steady decline in the gold indexes over the past 10 days reflects the near-certainty that the official U.S. price of $35 an ounce is going to stand for some time yet.

The rumored "gold pool" of Western nations co-operating to hold the price of the precious metal within a narrow range of the official price means that B.C. and eastern Canada gold producers will have to rely for higher profits on the premium U.S. dollar rather than on higher prices for their products.

The speculators' hope for a gold price boost has actually been rather forlorn for months now as the U.S. administration has expressed its grim determination not to devalue its currency at any cost.

Although the U.S. government steadfastly refuses to confirm or deny the existence of the "gold pool" the London Times is credited in financial circles as having been correct in its assessment of the situation in a story it broke last week.

It is also conceded that the "leaking" of the story to the Times may well have been done purposely in order to immediately dampen the ardor of gold speculators who were showing signs of becoming active again.

The pool—apparently an extension of the type of intervention worked out by the U.S. Treasury and the Bank of England during the "London gold rush" of late 1960—will not operate constantly but will allow minor variation in the market to let London act as a "barometer" of confidence in the dollar.

After a 17-year career with the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Rhys Sale, chairman of the board of directors, will retire Saturday. During his presidency of Ford from January, 1950, to November, 1960, Mr. Sale played a prominent role in the Canadian business community. During his career he devoted his energies to many community fields. He has received an honorary degree of doctor of law from UBC and a doctor of science in business administration from Assumption University.

Material, medical and technical assistance valued at nearly $735,500 was provided to over 40 countries by our Canadian Red Cross last year.

BLACK WANTS REHABILITATION PROGRAM FOR GIRLS

Action Promised on 'Delinquency'

Welfare Minister Wesley Black Wednesday promised action on improved treatment of delinquent girls—probably this fall.

In defence of his department against two days of Opposition battling, he told the legislature:

"The picture isn't as black as it looks."

He said a complete survey is under way by newly-appointed juvenile delinquency co-ordinator Cecil Gorby, and he expects recommendations this fall. The government is also giving "serious thought" to reconstituting a special legislative committee on delinquency disbanded two years ago.

Main recommendation he's hoping for, he said, is for a follow-up program of rehabilitation for girls who are sent to Willingdon School.

Bitterest Debate

Willingdon was the cause in the early hours of Wednesday morning of the bitterest debate of the session, when a government member read letters he said came from the girls attacking chief Opposition welfare critic Dave Barrett (NDP-CCF—Dewdney).

The Opposition planned to read its own letters about Willingdon in the afternoon sitting, but Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF—Kaslo-Slocan) said it would not be fair to the girls and staff and parents involved. He offered to show them to Mr. Black privately.

The man who read the government's letters, Dan Campbell of Comox, tried to put the record straight.

I don't think either this is the place to bring exaggerated details of human problems and suffering.

Political Slant

"When you exaggerate details of these problems in the legislature there cannot help but be some sort of political slant to them."

(The letters he had read were about a speech from Mr. Barrett saying the girls were led into prostitution and drug addiction through associations at the school and lack of rehabilitation.)

Mr. Barrett Tuesday had tried to outline a rehabilitation program.

He asked Mr. Campbell if this was "exaggerated details of human suffering."

Mr. Campbell said no, he wasn't referring specifically to Mr. Barrett.

"I'm over 21 and I've come into politics expecting rough-house trouble," he said.

He said the government had been making emotional attacks instead of dealing with the real problems.

Survey Refused

Mr. Barrett said the government had never answered charges of Ruby McKay, child welfare superintendent who resigned in 1961. It had refused to have a survey of the whole department.

"The question is are you afraid of the facts? That's the accusation I make."

Mr. Harding said Mr. Barrett had made a sincere attempt to give constructive criticism.

On Willingdon: "You ought to see the letters we have received from professional people and people who work in the institution commending the member for Dewdney for the commonsense, sane, sensible suggestions he has made to the government."

Letters Received

"We have been receiving letters from parents and some of the trained staff."

But he would upset everybody by reading them in the legislature, though he offered them privately to the minister.

Mr. Black said he wasn't going to be personal in reply to the Opposition.

"If the member for Dewdney brought any criticism on his head, I suggest he brought it upon himself."

He said Mr. Barrett had "pontificated."

However, he admitted that he and Mr. Barrett (a university-trained social worker) are "not too far apart."

"I wish I had the cure for delinquency, the same as I wish I had the cure for cancer. It isn't going to happen the day after tomorrow."

But, he said, he had "tried to take a very progressive attitude."

THE DEATH DOCTORS

Did they want to think? Even in Hitler's Germany the law still barred experiments that were likely to be painful or fatal, or which were made without willing consent. Field Marshal Keitel said the army wanted no part in Human experimentation, but 350 guilty men, the DEATH DOCTORS, worked on, stamping their reports "Top Secret."

When it was all over, they pleaded "we only acted under orders." THE NEWS OF THE WORLD believes these facts should be told: Read THE DEATH DOCTORS in THE NEWS OF THE WORLD, February 25th issue. NOW ON SALE, ONLY 15c.

Share Holding Back to 39%

Purchase by Phillips Petroleum Co. of Oklahoma of 607,143 shares of Pacific Petroleum Ltd. pushes Phillips share of ownership in Pacific back up to 39 per cent—just where it was prior to the deal whereby Pacific took over the Canadian holdings of Western Natural Gas for 1.6 million shares.

Western Natural Gas of Houston, after selling the block to Phillips, continues to hold 1,017,571 shares of Pacific—56 per cent—while Mid-Continent Sunray Oils holds 5.2 cent.

Phillips got a good buy from Western Natural of about $12.35 a share or better than $2 below the current market.

While Pacific remains technically a Canadian-owned company, the Phillips move leaves no doubt where the real control is centred. Another deal with Western Natural and one with Mid-Continent, plus a minimal amount of buying in the market would make the control airtight.

Also increasing its holdings in this country is the Sinclair Oil Corp. which, through its subsidiary Sinclair Canada Oil Co., has purchased all of Dome Petroleum Ltd.'s producing properties in the Redwater field for $8,742,000.

Originally Sinclair had been prepared to buy almost all Dome's assets for about $42 million but Dome called this deal off when it couldn't get a satisfactory tax opinion from the Canadian government.

Wharf Built for Coast Steamer After Service Was Suspended

Lack of co-ordination of plans between the provincial and federal governments has led to tremendous waste of public funds on transportation facilities on the B.C. coast.

This is the opinion of Dan Campbell, Comox Social Credit MLA, who spoke at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce harbor and transportation group this week.

The federal government, he said, is still building wharf facilities for coastal steamer services that no longer exist.

As an example he cited the $47,000 federal pier on Denman Island built after the Princess Mary was withdrawn from service. This, he said, is the most expensive "garbage ramp" ever built by a government.

Mr. Campbell said the whole nature of transportation on Vancouver Island and the offshore islands had been drastically altered in recent years and would continue to change as roads were pushed further north on Vancouver Island.

Historically, he said, the island had developed as a series of settlements dotted along the east coast and all integrated not with one another but with Vancouver.

North of Campbell River, up until three years ago, every community was linked to Vancouver by steamer service and as a result these communities never developed an effective "regional concept" of transportation. Until as late as 10 years ago, much the same thing could be said for the southern part of the Island.

However, with the advance of roads and new ferry services, Mr. Campbell said, the picture has changed completely.

Taking Quadra Island as an example, he noted that in the 1960-61 season the Quadra Island-Campbell River car ferry had carried 100,000 vehicles. Six years ago the only direct link with Quadra Island was by way of Vancouver.

Mr. Campbell claimed that people in the southern part of Vancouver Island did not realize the potential of the north and of the future which lay ahead when road and ferry communications reached the northern tip of the Island.

DUAL KEEL CEREMONY AT SHIPYARD MONDAY

Ceremonial laying of the keels of the two latest B.C. government ferries will take place at Victoria Machinery Depot's No. 2 plant, Outer Wharf, at 4 p.m. Monday.

The pre-fabricated keel sections, each weighing 35 tons, will be swung into place by crane. Sponsors at the ceremony, which will be watched by about 200 invited guests, will be Mrs. Waldo Skillings and Mrs. J. Donald Smith, wives of Victoria MLAs.

The two ferries will be completed about a month apart, with launching of the first expected in late September or October.

VAUGHN FAMILIES WIN AT ASTRONOMICAL ODDS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Odds experts may now sharpen their pencils and estimate the chances against THIS happening:

Out of millions of Irish Hospital sweepstakes tickets sold, fate selected two Arthur Vaughn families to share a possible chance at $140,000—the top prize—on the same horse.

Each Vaughn family was notified Wednesday it holds a ticket on Frenchman's Cove.

One lives in suburban San Pedro, the other in West Covina. They are not acquainted.

VANCOUVER EAST ANNOYED

Government Charged With Gerrymandering

Charges of gerrymandering were levelled at the Social Credit government in the B.C. legislature Tuesday.

They came in a plea for redistribution of seats in the House from Alex Macdonald (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East). Jim Rhodes (NDP-CCF—Delta) called for an independent commission to study redistribution throughout the whole province.

NO PLANS NOW

But they were all told by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that the government has no redistribution plans at present.

Mr. Macdonald complained that his riding, with 79,000 voters, had only two seats in the legislature, while Victoria, with 32,000 electors, had three MLAs.

Vancouver East, with two Opposition members, was almost the same size and character as Vancouver Point Grey, with three government MLAs, he said.

"This is arbitrary and capricious," he protested. "This is discrimination against the people in my riding."

"Call it gerrymandering; call it punishing this part of the province."

He said the riding was "grossly under-represented." Either the riding should be cut up, or given three or four seats, he said.

'Toy Gun' Ban Asked

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Michael Murphy Wednesday ordered a crackdown on the sale of toy guns. Murphy said "too many realistic toy pistols" have been used recently in the commission of crimes.

Druggist, MD Both Blamed As Girl Dies

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury early today found a doctor and a druggist negligent in the death of an eight-year-old Toronto girl.

Norma Mary Coulson died March 3 after taking seven tablets of pericodin, an anti-allergy drug, in a 24-hour period. A medical witness said a child her age should have no more than half a tablet three or four times a day.

The jury found the family doctor, Dr. Gerald Gold, negligent in prescribing the overdose and druggist Laurence Co., who filled the prescription for a tablet every four hours, "negligent in not recognizing that the prescription was an overdose."

The jury ruled death was caused "as the result of an overdose of pericodin, which led to drowsiness, nausea and resultant vomiting."

It found Norma, "in her drowsy state," was unable to spit out the vomit, breathed some in and was asphyxiated.

Tearful Camille Wins Her 'Battle of Jericho'

Camille Mather has won her battle of Jericho. Hill deaf school.

The tears she shed in the legislature turned to gold Wednesday when Works Minister Chant promised her contracts for two new buildings late this year or early in 1963.

He said they might cost a total of $1,000,000.

"We are taking a new look," Mr. Chant told the House.

PROTEST RENEWED

He made the promises after Mrs. Mather, NDP-CCF member for Delta renewed her protest about "deplorable" buildings and inadequate facilities at the deaf school.

When she made her plea for a new school earlier in the session an hour of fierce Social Credit barracking made her cry.

"Don't neglect any longer this deplorable—I use the word advisedly—building," she pleaded Wednesday during debate on Mr. Chant's estimates.

She said classrooms were small, teaching facilities inadequate, teaching aids not put to proper use, lighting and heating poor, dining rooms and dormitories inadequate.

Mr. Chant said his department was "strained to the limit," with a $14,000,000 vocational school building program.

"We are proceeding with the planning (for Jericho) just as quickly as we can finish up the vocational school work."

There would be at least two new buildings—classrooms and dormitories. A third, for vocational training would receive later consideration in co-operation with education department.

As for the old buildings: "We know it's old, but we wouldn't say it had reached the point of being decrepit."

It could be used for administrative offices.

He said he didn't think its condition had contributed to anyone's ill health.

Asked by Mrs. Mather for more details, Mr. Chant said he personally estimated the cost to be about $1,000,000.

"We hope to get started at the end of the year or sometime at the beginning of next year."

"Preliminary planning is definitely on the way. Other planning—specifics—will come when the vocational work load is finished, he said.

Mrs. Mather also complained about pictures of the Jericho Hill School for the blind which appeared last week in The Colonist.

Only one showed deaf children being taught, and it did not show the building they were in.

"This was remiss, either in the direction of the government saying what pictures should be in, or remiss by the departments (education and works) putting out that this was the entire picture."

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said pictures were taken of all the buildings.

"But the pictures run were not the old building," said Mrs. Mather.

In answer to other questions from Mrs. Mather, Mr. Chant said the government has spent an average of between $500,000 and $600,000 a year for the past six years on maintenance, upkeep, and operation of the two schools.

HIRED BOBBY SUGGESTED FOR TOURISTS

A retired policeman may be hired to dress up in a uniform and "bobby" helmet to pound a beat in the city's tourist area, city police commission was informed Wednesday.

Commissioner William Hamilton said, a man had been found who would be willing to perform the work.

But the publicity bureau should pay for it, he said.

Both the bureau and the Chamber of Commerce have agitated for return of "bobby" helmeted police to the Causeway area as a tourist attraction. The policemen's union has resisted the request.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

PHOENIX—No one in the barroom had to wait for the morning papers to come up. I didn't have to turn on the radio at breakfast to find out how bad it was for Kild Paret. We knew it immediately, sitting there in the humid dusk of the desert saloon where the sand drifts like saffron snow along the window sills.

The glad advice of the announcer couldn't explain the disgust away. He told us, as if addressing an audience of blind men, that the doctor said it would be all right. You only had to look at Paret, lost in the blackness of his terrible solitude, to understand this was all over for him. We were almost a continent away and yet we understood that death was reaching for Paret.

What happened after the actual fight was obscure. The television people followed their schedule. Not even the approach of death interfered with their grisly showmanship.

We realized Paret was on the frontier of death. Why didn't the television people who were in the building where it happened? They should have let him alone. But in that business you take an angle as far as it will go.

Boring Under Other Circumstances

It was a Saturday night fight. This is how they intended to proceed if there was a knockout. You know what time costs? Not the time as measured by Paret's faint heartbeats but the minutes on the producer's stop watch. You just don't waste time when you buy it by the hour. You have time left on a telecast, use it. How often, anyway, can you show a pug who is practically beaten to death?

They had a cute gimmick, too. They got Emile Griffith, who destroyed Paret, and had him perform as an inter-luctor. He explained how he had beaten Paret limber as they repeated the knockout in slow-motion.

It would have been boring under other circumstances. But it made Griffith seem nastily indifferent about the guy they had carried out on a stretcher.

He explained he intended to keep punching but the referee made him stop. It was a casual remark, uttered often by many fighters after countless fights. But we had seen him ruin Paret and that turned it evil.

The camera was slow getting to the knockout. It didn't seem possible that Griffith had only used his hands. In the 12th round, Paret seemed nimble and the owner of his senses. But he suddenly appeared to be unconcerned about what was happening to him.

The bones seemed to turn to fat in his thick body. I counted 25 punches as Griffith used both hands. Then Paret was sliding down, like a slumber-hell man descending from an upper berth. He seemed, not like a man in a fight, but some one who forgot he took a sleeping pill and is abruptly controlled by his drug.

I sit here, ashamed of myself. I know what the fight racket is. Yet I'm moved by it. It calls to me even when I attack it. And, even now as I write in a strange town, I still in some way I'm responsible for what occurred in my city. I'm embarrassed because it has excited me more than any other sport I cover. It would like to be a fan even if I weren't paid to report it.

The fight racket belongs to Paret now. His kind own it. Only hurt and dead pugs are the final authorities. The maimed and slain soldier knows more about combat than the great untouched generals of all the wars men have fought. How could you terrify an ancient warrior slain by an arrow by describing the terror of atomic machines? You forget what men can do with their fists until a fight turns into an atrocity.

It is strange how little I know of Paret. Of course, he was just another fighter with small skills but he was also champion of the world. It wasn't because he was a foreigner that he was almost unknown in a business where he should have been famous. There are some men who always take the side streets.

Even his brief possession of the title was ridiculed. The decision in his second fight with Griffith was disputed. He was embedded in a strange anonymity, a stranger to the uncounted multitude who watched his public anguish last Saturday. But, in his heart, this was a fighter as all of them pretend they are.

Obstinate Valor His Only Talent

He was obstinate in his valor and that was his only talent. It was taking what they gave him and staying in close and making his fight as long as he could. He won from better men because they knew he would be coming to them, stubborn and persistent with a casual toughness. He was that way with Gene Fullmer and was in Saturday's fight as long as his mind was able to control his body.

They are doing a lot of talking about this. Big men shout about negligence but there is no one to blame.

It wasn't Griffith's fault because he is paid to do this. So was Fullmer and all the other guys who punched Paret before them. They had a licence to do it and this violence was sanctioned by the state. There is a commission to run it. This is the way the fight racket is. All of us, in a way, from television watcher to ticket buyer, are guilty. This is how we kill time. Men suffer to entertain us.

This isn't the last time either. It will happen again and there will never be a way to prevent it as long as there are fights. It is a wicked sport and a criminal act if you do it in a saloon. I don't care what becomes of it. We will not suffer as a people if it is abolished.

NO IMPROVEMENT

'He's Just Sleeping' Claims Mrs. Paret

NEW YORK (AP)—Former welterweight boxing champion Benny (Kid) Paret entered his fifth day of unconsciousness today. His wife was optimistic but doctors said he still has only a slight chance to survive.

The Cuban was knocked out by Emile Griffith in the 12th round of their title fight Saturday night.

The 25-year-old fighter remained in a moderate coma with no improvement in his condition, a bulletin from Roosevelt Hospital said today. He "occasionally makes purposeful movements with his arms, although abnormal movements still occur. He does not recognize people."

A hospital spokesman said Paret's coma had lessened but remained deep. "There's no telling how long he'll be in a coma. He could come out of it in a few minutes or a year from now. And he might not come out of it at all."

While the reports were not encouraging, Paret's pregnant wife, Lucy, said "I feel a lot better than I felt about his condition before. To me he's just sleeping. I'm praying that any minute he will wake up."

The fight continued to draw criticism. In Vatican City, the Vatican radio called professional boxing "objectively immoral" because physical injury is in its "very nature, aims and methods."

JUDY HUMBER

ALL-VICTORIA FINAL

Allison, Judy to Clash for Title

MONTREAL — The next junior girls' badminton champion of Canada will come from Victoria.

This was assured today when two Victoria girls, Judy Humber and Allison Daysmith, won their semi-final matches in the Canadian tournament.

Miss Daysmith defeated Maria Stubbs, Winnipeg, 7-11, 11-4, 11-8.

Miss Humber defeated Bev Chittick of Windsor, Ont., 11-8, 11-9.

Winners meet in the championship round Saturday.

Another B.C. player, 21-year-old Wayne Macdonnell, moved a step closer to the men's singles crown. After a slow start—"I just couldn't get untracked at first"—Macdonnell tripped Ray Cornish of Stratford, 12-15, 15-2, 15-8.

Macdonnell today meets Jim Poole, No. 1 in the U.S., in one semi-final. The other pits Indonesia's Ferdinand Sonneville against Sweden's Bert Dahlberg.

Sonneville breezed to a 15-4, 15-8 quarter-final victory over Vancouver's Rolf Paterson. Dahlberg, hampered by a heel bruise, eased past Jimmy Carnwarth of Toronto, Canada's top-rated man, 9-15, 15-8, 18-15.

Poole gained the semis by whipping Dave Thompson of Winnipeg, 15-8, 15-5 in an 18 minute match.

But the big story — from a Victoria viewpoint — was the play of the Misses Humber and Daysmith, plus Diana Godfrey.

The Humber-Daysmith alliance romped to successive victories in junior girls' doubles. They defeated Sue Harris and Judy Harris 15-9, 15-3, in first-round action, won their quarter-finals match over Yolande Denis and Monique Dansereau, 15-6, 15-4.

Miss Godfrey and Judy Shakespeare of Halifax topped Helen Cavrak and Carol Staples, 15-8, 15-5, and went on to a 15-8, 7-15, 15-11 quarter-finals victory over Joanne Jenkins and Carolyn McLure.

Miss Humber and Bruce Rollick of Vancouver gained the junior mixed doubles semis by stopping Doug Hughes and Maria Stubbs, 15-5, 15-4. Miss Godfrey teamed with Ed Paterson of Vancouver to overcome Sam McCallum and Helen Cavrak, 15-10, 15-7. Two Victorians, Alex Barloewen and Miss Daysmith, lost 5-15, 12-15 to Gordon Wade and Bonnie Elmsley.

... IN CANADIAN TOURNEY

Earlier the Barloewen-Daysmith duo had defeated Yves Pare and Yolande Denis 15-8, 15-3. Paterson and Miss Godfrey gained the quarter-finals by trouncing Graham Grant and Sue Carr Harris, 15-10, 15-7. Rollick and Miss Humber won their first round match 15-7, 15-11 over Gordon Grant and Joyce Harrison.

Victoria's Barloewen, teamed with Barry Shakespeare of Halifax, never survived the junior boys' doubles first round. They were beaten 15-9, 12-15, 14-18 by Gordon and Graham Grant of Toronto.

'THE SHOWER... IS THAT WAY'

Getting travel instructions from umpire Tony Venzon at St. Petersburg, Fla., is Pittsburgh Pirates' manager Danny Murtagh. Venzon wearied of Murtagh's sustained protest against

New Stars Challenging For Times Open Crown

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The familiar old faces and the perennial challengers are easily recognized by even those with only a slight acquaintance with golf.

They dominate the list of 32 golfers who qualified for the always-interesting match play in the Times Vancouver Island Open championships.

When the pairings are sent off Sunday at Victoria Golf Club, most of the names "have been there before." Quickly recognized are such as medalist Dick Munn; former Times Open champions Art Donaldson, Bill Wakeham, Bill McColl and the Lauries-Kerr and Carroll; hardy former finalists Bill Court, John Meriman, Dr. George Bigelow and Ron MacLeod, and veteran threats Gordie Pellow, Frank Scroggs and Gord Whan.

Always considered, carefully watched...

SOUTHPAW SWINGER

But the Times Open format is one of match play, and that's what gives the lesser lights a chance to shine. That, too, is what makes the Island's biggest tournament the most interesting.

There's no shortage of "new faces" this year. In fact, there seems to be more than the usual amount of new names seeking a trophy that helps establish a golfer in the upper echelon.

BASKETBALL ACES

A former basketball player, Jacobson had been playing to a scratch handicap at Ardmore. Now a member of Royal Colwood, he's playing in the 46 handicap range at his new club.

Uplands' John Furmston is the only other southpaw in the field. The lefties are but two of several golfers who sparked in other sports and then turned their attention to the fairways.

Furmston was well-known on the softball diamond and also was a competitive weight-lifter.

Basketball also supplied former stars George (Porky) Andrews, the Colwood member, who takes on the task of trying to upend medalist Munn in what looms as one of the feature matches Sunday, and George Vale's Gordie Jones.

Jones is a fireman who sings his handicap down to four in less than three years that he has been playing golf.

There are others... Mike Kolb, a six-foot, three B.C. Electric employee who takes on Wakeham, and Bill Wightman, a sporting goods salesman and part-time drummer who beat out an impressive staccato with a 74 in the qualifying round. Wightman, a former Regina junior champion, only recently stepped back onto Gorge Vale's fairways to take up golf in a more serious vein.

Sunday's matches start with the handicap division leading the way at 8:30 a.m. Competitors in the championship start teeing off at 9:30 with Munn and Andrews leading the way.

Survivors move into the second round to be played the following Sunday at Colwood.

City Rugby Aces Seek Team Spots

Eleven Victoria rugby players are slated to play at Vancouver Saturday in a trial match leading toward selection of the Canadian team that will tour Great Britain next fall.

Picked for the Vancouver match are Brian Usher of Victoria College; Sonny Vickery, Ross Irving, Til Briggs and Charlie Bishop of James Bay Athletic Association, and Lin Paterson, Chris Pollard, Maurice Preece, Murray MacAlpine, Rob Wilson and Don Burgess of Oak Bay Wanderers.

Only a Few Days Left To Join Safety Class

Time is getting short for registration in the second annual junior safety program of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association.

Open to all boys and girls 18 and under, the course will get underway next Tuesday evening. Registrations will be accepted by Stan Williams, 1225 Government, until 5 p.m. Monday.

During the course, students will have the opportunity of firing rifles and shotguns under supervision and will take three Sunday afternoon field trips. Six Tuesday evening classes are scheduled at the VFGPA clubhouse at Goldstream.

Transportation will be provided for the juniors, who require only a $1 VFGPA junior membership to be eligible for the course. The course is designed to acquaint teenagers with proper methods of handling firearms and the enjoyment that can be derived from their proper use as well as improving general knowledge of the outdoors.

Students passing a written examination at the conclusion of the course will receive certificates, and top students will receive prizes. Juniors should be accompanied by a parent or guardian when registering.

Colwood Loop Signs Players on Saturday

Colwood and District Softball League will hold a player registration Saturday at View Royal Fire Hall starting at 10 a.m. Annual meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the fire hall.

The league operated 38 boys and girls teams in pee wee, midget, bantam, juvenile and junior divisions last year.

'New' Imlach Clams Up On Chances of Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Usually-confident coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs isn't counting his chickens before they're hatched these days, at least not publicly.

The loquacious Imlach, who doubles as the club's general manager, has been willing all this season to tell reporters how his Leafs were going to win this and that.

Before the Stanley Cup semifinal series against New York Rangers started Tuesday night, Imlach became cautious, reserving comment about his club's chances. Leafs won the game 4-2, but the Toronto coach started singing songs of woe after the game and his tune hadn't changed Wednesday.

He even looked beyond tonight's game here to the third and fourth of the best-of-seven series in New York Sunday and Tuesday nights.

"If you don't fight in New York, you're dead," he said after a Toronto practice Wednesday. "You've got to check in New York or you're in trouble."

STUCK TO PLAY

Imlach plans to use Eddie Shack tonight on a line with centre Ted Kelly and left winger Frank Mahovlich.

Shack, a crowd-pleasing right winger, hurt his left knee twice this season and had two six-week layoffs. Imlach hasn't been satisfied with his play since.

Stewart and Shack were among a handful of Leafs who participated in a full-length practice Wednesday.

New York also went easy on the practising Wednesday, with only a half dozen including their spare goaltender making the 33-mile trip here from Oshawa where the club is staying. Playing coach Doug Harvey watched the practice from the stands, chatting amiably with reporters.

'STRATEGY GOES SCREWY'

He mentioned—but wouldn't reveal—a new strategy he plans for tonight, then conceded:

"You can plan ahead all you want, but strategy always goes screwy. We're just going to have to check hard and dig hard and map our strategy as we go along."

New York general manager Muzz Patrick saw a lot of room for improvement behind the Rangers blue line.

"There are lots of nights when Gump (New York goaltender Worley) would have stopped shots like those that went in last night. And how can you score goals if your defence can't stop the other team from getting into your end?"

Richmond Gals Bid for Title

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton eliminated Saskatoon Aces Wednesday night with a crowd-plesing 44-43 victory in the Canadian senior women's basketball playoffs.

The playoffs continue in Edmonton Friday night with Edmonton meeting Vancouver Richmond Merchants for the title. Vancouver, which has won two straight in the round-robin, double-knockout playoffs, can take the title by winning that game. Edmonton, with a 1-1 record, needs a win to force a sudden-death playoff.

Esquimalt Lacrosse Association will hold a meeting at Esquimalt Municipal Centre tonight at 8. Registration for boys six to 21 will take place at the Centre Saturday at 10 a.m.

Warmest Goalie Key to Victory

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Rudy Pilous figures the Stanley Cup semifinal series that pits his Chicago Black Hawks against Montreal Canadiens will be decided by goaltending.

The best-of-seven round will then boil down to a question of who turns out to be the "hottest goalie"—Jacques Plante of Canadiens or Glenn Hall of the Black Hawks.

"Everything is equal on the defences and along the forward lines," said Pilous Wednesday. "So it figures that whoever comes up with the big saves will hold up his team."

Both netminders turned in superb performances in Tuesday night's series opener, which Canadiens won 2-1. The set resumes here tonight.

PLAY IN CHICAGO

Canadiens would be in the driver's seat if they win the second game. But if they lose, the Hawks would have the advantage as the scene shifts to Chicago for the third and fourth games April 1 and April 3.

If further games are necessary, they'll be played at Montreal April 5, Chicago April 8 and Montreal April 10.

Pilous concedes the Canadiens have great balance up front—seven 20-goal scorers in regular-season National Hockey League play—but it won't mean a thing if Hall remains hot.

Pilous and other Chicago officials regard tonight's game as a key one.

"There's no doubt that splitting the first two games here would leave us in much better shape," said Pilous.

PLANTE RESTS

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens, meanwhile, said he regards tonight's game as a big one—"just like all other playoff games."

The Canadiens with the exception of Plante and defenceman Lou Fontinato went through a light workout Wednesday. The Hawks only scheduled an optional skating session and seven players turned out.

Plante asked for the day off after a 36-stop performance in the series' opener and Blake said "the rest won't do him any harm."

Goddard Heads Oak Bay League

George Goddard is the new president of the Oak Bay Little League.

Ken Duncan is first vice-president and Ray LeJeune second vice-president. Mrs. Doris Bates was named secretary and Tom Thomson treasurer.

Rounding out elections was the addition of Doug Taylor to the directorate.

Slick Bowling Topples India

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—A sensational spell of off-spin bowling by Lance Gibbs, who took eight wickets for six runs, sent India crashing to defeat by an innings and 30 runs on the final day of the third Test Wednesday.

What's With Mets? ... Even Case Can't Guess

CASEY STENGEL

By LEO H. PETERSEN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—What's with the New York Mets, one of the two new clubs in the National League?

Their manager, Casey Stengel, doesn't know. "I only know we have an owner (Mrs. Charles Payson) with a lot of money, the best general manager (George Weiss) in the business and a field manager who I guess you'd have to say has experience. (Casey has that—21 years with major league clubs.)

"Now as to the ball club, you ask me. Tell me how strong the other clubs are, and I'll tell you where we will finish. I'll also tell you we will finish at the Polo Grounds which is going to be our home for one year (at a cost of some

"But next year we will be at a new ball park in New York which will have plenty of seats and lots of parking space. Now, I may not be the manager then, for my health may not permit it, but I am hoping that I am starting something which will help New York.

"I have fine coaches (Solly Hemus, Cookie Lavagetto, Rogers Hornsby and Red Ruffing) and any of them can take over when I step down.

"Now do we have any ball players?"

NOT LIKE YANKEES

He knows the answer is not many, but won't admit it. If there is one thing the 71-year-old Stengel avoids, it is comparing this club with the New York Yankees teams he led to 10 pennants in 12 years.

"We haven't looked too good," he says. When a baseball writer suggested there have been days when the Yankees didn't look good either, he winked and replied: "But not many."

There are likely to be many days in 1962 when the Mets will not look too good. They will field a team composed for the most part of veterans who are past their prime and youngsters whom the other National League clubs let go in the player draft because they felt they had better kids coming up.

WENT FOR POWER

The Mets drafted their players with the Polo Grounds, the home of the old Giants, in mind. They went for power over defence and pitching.

"We'll see," Casey says, "whether we were smart or not."

His veterans include outfielders Richie Ashburn, 34; Gus Bell, 33, and Frank Thomas, 32; first baseman Gil Hodges, 36; third baseman Don Zimmerman, 31; utility man Ted Lepcio, 31; catcher Hobie Landrith, 32; pitcher Roger Craig, 31, and so on down the line.

When it comes to pitching it doesn't look like the Mets will have much of it.

Casey's staff of 13 prospects won a total of 15 games in the majors last season and lost 18; in the minors they won 65 and lost 55.

It might be the kind of pitching Casey was used to when he managed the old Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, but it isn't the kind he was used to as manager of the Yankees.

The Yankees let Casey (and Weiss, too, for that matter) go because he was too old. It looks like he is going to age a lot more in 1962.

SEATTLE, Wash. (CP)—Max Meklikof of Spokane Comets captured the Western Hockey League's scoring title this season with 56 goals and 61 assists for 97 points.

League statistics released today show the 27-year-old centre ended up four points ahead of Norm Johnson of Calgary Stampede. Johnson had 93 points on 29 goals and 64 assists ended up four points ahead of Norm Johnson of Calgary points on 29 goals and 64 assists.

Bill MacFarland of Seattle Totems was the leading goal-getter with 46. Tommy McVie of Portland was next with 45.

The goaltending crown went to Al Miller of Seattle, who completed a goals-against average of 3.13.

Cepeda Good Bet To Crack Record

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're looking for someone who might smash Roger Maris' mark of 61 home runs in a season, consider Orlando Cepeda.

There are many folks who figure the 24-year-old San Francisco Giant star is just the man to do it—and this year.

Cepeda, 1961 National League home king with 46 round-trippers, gave his backers added support Wednesday when he hit a three-run homer that snapped a 5-5 tie and carried the Giants to an 11-6 triumph over Los Angeles Angels.

It was No. 4 of the exhibition season for Cepeda and his third in consecutive games. Cepeda accounted for 142 runs hatted in and had a .311 average last year. With an expanded 10-team league, an enlarged 162-game schedule and a batter such as the great Willie Mays in the lineup with him, Cepeda could wind up No. 1 in the homer derby. Maris, with New York Yankees of the American League, hit 61 last season.

The Yankees defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-1, Philadelphia Phillies outslugged Milwaukee Braves 12-11, Cincinnati Reds beat Detroit Tigers 4-2 in 10 innings, New York Mets edged Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 at St. Petersburg, Fla., Cleveland Indians beat Chicago Cubs 9-6 and Minnesota Twins defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6.

Annual Team Clash Slated at Oak Bay

Dick Clay figures his side is strongest. President J. D. D. Campbell thinks he's got the ticket.

Whitey's Boys Prove Best In Cool Boxla

They were cool man, cool. "They" were a collection of Victoria and Nanaimo lacrosse players who threw the boxla ball around on ice Wednesday at Esquimalt Sports centre.

The coolest—or maybe the hottest—team was Victoria All-Stars.

Coached by Whitey—"call me Don Jackson"—Severson, Victoria whipped Nanaimo All-Stars 7-5. More than 350 watched the shenanigans. Proceeds went to help minor lacrosse in Esquimalt.

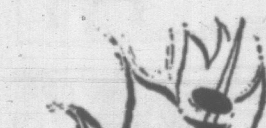

A challenge hockey game between IAA and Esquimalt Pontiacs ended 5-5, settling nothing.

Mike Ellis scored three goals for Nanaimo lacrosse-men. Singles were added by Lloyd Sherry and Gord Lawler. Norm Kowalyk was Victoria's best shooter with two goals.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Suzanne Carriere, age 12, Oromocto, N.B., for her question:

How Can There Be Oxygen in Water?

The oxygen we breathe is a gas and a gas is very different from liquid water. Oxygen, we are told, is one of the ingredients in water and there is certainly plenty of oxygen in the sea for the fishes to breathe. But the oxygen breathed by the sea-dwellers is not the same oxygen which is an ingredient of water. To solve these mysteries we need to know a little bit of chemistry.

To a chemist, water is a compound of the elements hydrogen and oxygen. It is made of small particles, each containing one atom of oxygen and two atoms of hydrogen. When you bake a cake, you use eggs, butter, sugar and flour. But the finished cake is very different from its ingredients. A compound, such as water, is also very different from its ingredients. In their pure form, the elements hydrogen and oxygen are gases. Each atom of oxygen has eight protons in its central nucleus. Outside the nucleus are eight electrons, two in an inner shell and six in a second shell—which means that the oxygen atom has room for two more electrons.

The hydrogen atom has only one proton in its nucleus and outside it is a single electron. An atom needs two electrons to complete its inner shell and the lone electron of the hydrogen atom is very restless. The oxygen atom, needing two electrons to complete its second shell, is also very restless. But when one atom of oxygen and two atoms of hydrogen combine, all these problems are solved. The three atoms share their electrons and form a single particle of the compound, water. The compound, like the cake is very different from its ingredients.

Breathed by Sea Dwellers

This chemical magic accounts for the disappearance of the oxygen which is an ingredient of water. But this is not the oxygen which fishes breathe. The gaseous oxygen in the air tends to mix and blend with the water it touches. It dissolves with the water without forming a compound. This free oxygen, attached to atoms of hydrogen, is the oxygen breathed by the countless sea dwellers. There is free oxygen dissolved in our drinking water, though we cannot see it or smell it.

if, for when there is no dissolved oxygen, our drinking water is very flat. However, maybe we can taste it.

The fishes are happier and healthier where there is a lot of free oxygen in the water. They thrive in running streams and in the wave-tossed ocean. Here the oxygen in the air gets a better chance to mix with the water. In calm, stagnant water, there is little or no free oxygen and the fish go somewhere else where they find it easier to breathe.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Start Search Now For Summer Job

By JACK HUTTON

How many Canadian teenagers noticed a little item from McGill University the other day which said that 955 students have applied for summer vacation work?

Only twelve have found jobs so far.

If university students are finding it difficult to find summer work, what's it going to be like for high school students? The answer is obvious: slim.

A senior job placement officer confirmed this situation for me this week. "Teen-agers won't find jobs on every tree this summer," he said.

"The best advice I could give them at this time is to start thinking about a summer job right now if they are interested. Anyone who waits until June is going to find it pretty difficult."

Surprising

How can teen-agers compete with college students—who get out of school weeks earlier—and adults who are also looking for work? The answer surprised me.

"Of course teen-agers can compete," he said. "In fact, they have a distinct advantage. College students and adults must go after jobs that will pay them good money. Most teen-agers don't have that same problem."

"Which is more important for a teen-ager—to get a job that pays well but teaches him nothing, or to find a job that at least supplies pocket money and teaches him more about what he might like to do later?"

"I don't think there is a real choice, unless finances mean the difference between going back to school in the fall and not doing so. If I were a teen-ager, I'd look for something interesting."

"This is the summer to march into a business you'd like to know something about. Tell the owner you'd like to find out more about what he does, and make it clear that you want to help him."

"Don't be surprised if he immediately thinks up a job for you—and offers to pay. He may not pay much, but that's not important. It's a wonderful chance to learn."

He paused and looked thoughtful. If I had a dime for every high school student who thought he wanted to be a radio announcer or a criminal lawyer. They have no idea what it's all about. "Parents, teachers and everybody else can talk till they're blue in the face, but some teen-agers still get their ideas about certain jobs from the movies or TV. They're in for a rude jolt."

In three short months, several hundred thousand teen-agers across Canada will leave the classroom for holidays. Those seeking work will fall into three categories, according to my friend.

1—The smallest group will be those who must earn money or drop out of school next fall. (Remember, if you fall in this category, that bursaries are always available even if you don't find a job.)

2—The largest group will be those looking for jobs which sound interesting, which will keep them busy for the summer months and which will supply pocket money for the fall.

3—The third group—and I think the most farsighted—will be looking for jobs linked with their future careers. They may change their minds after the experience, but at least they'll find out.

Finally, none of the three groups stand much chance of finding summer jobs unless they start thinking about them now. Which group do you fall into?

Musical Snob

Well, a few readers are taking me over the coals again for my reference last week to the hit parade. I said then I thought Midnight in Moscow was the first glimpse of sanity in the hit parade for some time.

Joan Marshall, 14, of Halifax, writes: "Come, come, Jack, what's this about the hit parade? Aren't you being a bit of a musical snob when you blast the entire hit parade?"

"Maybe you're just giving away the fact that no one else understands what we teen-agers like about rock and roll. Frankly, I think Midnight in Moscow looks a good beat. Give me Elvis any time."

Charles Bracken, 15, of Vancouver, agrees. "It was the fashion to knock swing when Benny Goodman and the other bands were playing it," he writes. "Thirty years later we all agree it was great—but now we're knocking rock and roll."

"Just give it a chance to keep growing. Maybe it all isn't great stuff, but I figure it's going to grow into something different than we've had before."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Hedy Lamarr kept it a big secret—but she's been in a N.Y. court quietly suing a publisher for $1 million for "invasion of privacy"—for using her name, picture and the title of her first movie, "Ecstasy," in an article which she says is unauthorized. I met Hedy at a party and was astonished at how youthful and shapely she now looks. Beautiful Hedy's reportedly romancing with Los Angeles lawyer Lewis Boies—although she assures me she's never going to get married again, "this month."

THE IRONY: Postcards from mysteriously dead socialite Lucille Rogers von Linde—telling how happy she was on her honeymoon in Haiti—were received in New York Thursday by friends already grief-stricken. One of them said: "She was very sentimental—and very lonely."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... The Jack Carters, who have two apartments—his and hers—rent a third. (Theirs?) Red Skelton's illness postponed shooting of his TV'er with Audrey Meadows and Eve Brent... Benny Goodman asked Lionel Hampton to join him on the Moscow Jamb... Twist maestro Joey Dee rejects offers of one-nighters for less than $2,500... Allstar Cooke climbed on a chair at Sardi's to read the "I Can Get It For You Wholesale" reviews... Brigitte Bardot, who's campaigning for humane slaughtering of horses, objected to a scene in her film "Warrior's Repose"—where she'd kill goldfish. (She finally OK'd the shot—to be done once.)

EARL'S PEARLS: Taxation, like a lot of other things, is based on supply and demand. The government demands we supply.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A guy complained that he's having trouble with his wife—when he's at the office he can't get her on the phone, and when he's home he can't get her off the phone.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Doctors have discovered one illness so rare, we hear, that there isn't even a get-well card for it yet.

There's one local fellow, we're told, whose luck is so bad he'd lose at dog races even if he bet on the rabbit. That's Earl, brother.

Wish I'd said that: Doctors have discovered one

Exposure Urged For 'Repeaters'

Names of repeating juvenile offenders should be divulged to the public, Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF—Grand Forks, Greenwood) said Wednesday in the legislature.

She told the House during debate on social welfare estimates that she found the "remarks of Chief John Blackstock very alarming" in his annual police report on juvenile delinquency recently.

Although there was an overall reduction in the number of offences in 1961 compared with 1960 (589-686) in Victoria, most was due to fewer bicycle offences, she said.

Criminal Code offences more than doubled, to 254 last year; thefts, climbed to 116, and charges of breaking and entering jumped more than 100 per cent to 71.

"It is apparent, they are leaning to the more serious offences," Mrs. Haggen said.

"I think there is not enough curbing and not enough looking into what the situation is," she said, in calling for re-formation of the legislative committee on delinquency.

Releasing names of offenders (presently they are protected by law up to the age of 16) is one curb, she suggested.

The decision should be left to the juvenile court judge. "It may sound harsh," she agreed, but cited a case of a school principal who named offenders to the student body and the trouble within his school stopped.

"I think parents' names should be exposed when they don't go along with the officers of the law" in dealing with children, the MLA said.

PARENTS DERELICT

Mrs. Haggen said parents are derelict in their responsibility towards children.

"This is the age when parents are urged to drink up so their children can sell the beer bottles to buy pop when they should be drinking milk," she said.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said the government should extend incentives to young people to enter the field of social work in B.C., as has been done effectively in Saskatchewan.

He suggested social welfare research should also be carried out and that provincial welfare benefits be extended to the native Indian population who now get only federal benefits which are less than those paid by the province.

Mr. Perrault pointed out that Indians pay sales tax, from which benefits are drawn.

JFK Relies on A-Arms As Prime War Deterrent

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States plans to double its present secret stockpile of nuclear warheads by 1965 and to continue to depend on nuclear weapons as its prime deterrent to prevent another major war. But at no time would President Kennedy consider using nuclear weapons to launch a deliberate, aggressive attack.

This policy was explained by U.S. authorities in the wake of a Saturday Evening Post article by Stewart Alsop, based on an interview with Kennedy, which seemed to suggest that in some cases Kennedy might take the initiative and strike first with nuclear arms.

The White House hastily made clear this week that what Kennedy had in mind was the necessity of using all possible means—and this would include nuclear bombs—if Russia suddenly launched a massive conventional attack which threatened to overrun Western Europe.

By making clear that the U.S. would not refrain from reaching into its nuclear stockpile to crack such an attack, Kennedy hopes the thought will sink into the Russian mind that another major war could mean a nuclear war in which the U.S. would have sufficient strength to withstand a hydrogen attack and retaliate with sufficient nuclear power to destroy the enemy.

AIMED AT GERMANS

While Kennedy did not make clear why he decided to define U.S. nuclear policy at a time when 17 countries are engaged in disarmament talks at Geneva, it appears likely he had both political and diplomatic targets in mind.

West Germany, which favors turning NATO into an independent nuclear force, has often voiced concern whether the U.S. government would ever authorize the use of nuclear weapons to protect West Berlin and West Germany from a Soviet attack.

At home, some Republicans have questioned whether Kennedy would use nuclear weapons at all unless Russia used them first.

On both fronts, Kennedy has made clear that in the event of war, the choice, if possible, would not be left to Russia. Under the Eisenhower administration the emphasis for defence and deterrence was the nuclear bomb and the strategic air force long-range nuclear delivery system.

Former Victorian Dies in East

Major Andrew M. Clarke, who lived in Victoria both before and after the Second World War, died suddenly in Picton, Ontario, on Wednesday. He was 52. Born in Toronto he was a graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ontario, and joined the RCA there in 1932. He was posted to Victoria from 1938 to 1941, and served overseas with a light anti-aircraft regiment. He was stationed in Victoria again, at the Royal Canadian School of Artillery, in Esquimalt, from 1949 to 1952. He retired to settle in Picton. He is survived by his widow, Charit, and a daughter, Mary. The funeral will be held in Picton on Friday. Buses are used to take miners 500 yards into a mine in Sweden's far northern area of Kiruna.

Hydro Could Pay Debts With BCE

VANCOUVER — B.C. Electric assets could be used to absorb the debts of the government's B.C. Power Commission if the planned merger of the two goes ahead, British Columbia Court of Appeal was told Wednesday.

Douglas McK. Brown, QC, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation in its court battle to have the expropriation of BCE by the government ruled invalid, said that the merger could make worthless any court ruling that the takeover was illegal.

He said that could mean that the BCE assets would "disappear" in the merger so that the government, even if it was ordered to hand back the BCE to BC Power would have nothing to hand back.

B.C. Power is opposing an appeal by BCE and the Attorney-General against last week's Supreme Court ruling that an interim receiver should be appointed to protect BCE assets until present law suits are settled.

"The assets of the BCE becomes subject to the debts and burdens of the new hydro commission in the merger," Mr. Brown contended.

Legislation merging the BCE and BC Power Commission into a single power authority was passed by the Legislature Monday night, but has not yet been proclaimed.

WATERFRONT FLAREUP

PORTLAND (AP) — One shipping line official had his glasses knocked off and police were called Wednesday in a slight flareup of violence on the waterfront.

Members of the sailors union of the Pacific are picketing four ships of the Pacific Maritime Association members, tied up at Portland.

Police said a group of eight officials of the American-Mall Lines went aboard the Ss Washington Mail Wednesday morning to adjust the lines aboard ship because of a four-foot rise in the Willamette River.

A group of striking merchant seamen gathered and loosened the gangplank from the dock, police said.

BOOM IN CRIME

Spring Fever Hits City's Shoplifters

By JOHN MANNING
Spring fever seems to have hit one segment of the community in the hands.

The result is light fingers. With the first flush of the new season, downtown merchants painfully report a boom cycle in the amount of shoplifting.

Whether it is a desire for the new fashions or just whims for a spring wardrobe, officials don't know, but a serious movement of petty theft has taken over.

One store detective said he had never seen it so bad.

"They're grabbing everything from new suits to tape recorders," he winced.

Annual figures of shoplifting from department stores already necessitate a 3 per cent increase in the retail price of most articles.

Some detectives think the increase is due mainly to an expanding population of drug addicts, although the names of men and women from all stations in life are on the books of store detectives.

They have made a considerable number of arrests during the last few days and they expect the shoplifting rash to subside soon.

In the meantime they are being more watchful than ever.

NOMINATED to contest the Vancouver South riding in the next federal election, Arthur Laing, former B.C. provincial Liberal leader, will be trying to regain a Commons seat he held formerly. In his acceptance speech to a convention Wednesday night he stressed the need to improve trade with the U.S.

City Helps Addicts

NEW YORK (AP) — One-quarter of the 16,000 young persons being aided by the city youth board are narcotics users, the agency's director, Arthur J. Rogers, said Wednesday. He estimated that 5 per cent are confirmed addicts.

AFTER 20 YEARS

4-Week Holiday For Federal CS

OTTAWA (CP) — New regulations effective Monday will give civil servants four weeks annual holidays after 20 years employment, but dock their pay for being late for work.

The regulations were made public Wednesday by Sam Hughes, chairman of the Civil Service Commission which recommended them to the cabinet. They were passed Monday and are to be effective April 1, when the new Civil Service Act becomes law.

In the past, all civil servants were given three weeks annual leave after one year of service.

DOCK TARDY ONES

Civil servants will lose half an hour's pay for every half hour they are late for work or take off before the end of their normal working day. However, to meet normal traffic hazards and other contingencies, they will not be penalized if the lateness does not occur more frequently than twice a month or 12 times a year.

Another main feature of the new regulations is to make pay raises available immediately where they apply to civil servants who gain promotions. Regulations have been simplified governing "moonlighting," taking part-time employment in off hours. Under the new rules, civil servants may take second jobs as long as they do not unduly exploit their fellow employees for personal gain, take jobs which conflict with their civil service duties or make unauthorized use of government equipment or information they acquire as civil servants.

LOGGER, FAMILY HEAD HOME
Damage Claim Rejection Felt 'Gross Injustice'

Cariboo logger Lionel Carriere, his wife and three small children left Victoria Wednesday feeling their treatment in a claim for $1,900 was "grossly unjust."

The family came to the legislature Tuesday to protest against the highways department and claim compensation for the loss of the logger's job when they and a dozen other families at Sharpe Lake were snowbound for 11 days in January.

LOST CONTRACT

Carriere said he lost his falling contract when he was not able to get to the logging site 125 miles away at Williams Lake.

Highways department snow removal crews could not plow the back road free of a 30-inch snowfall because other roads had higher priority, Carriere was told.

William Speare (S.C. Cariboo) said Carriere accepted reimbursement for his family's trip to Victoria and emergency welfare assistance until he regains employment.

"He realizes the difficulty of an immediate settlement of a $1,900 grant based upon the circumstances of his claim, but naturally feels the treatment he has received here to be grossly unjust," Mr. Speare said.

Carriere had tried to see the premier for his family's trip to Victoria and emergency welfare assistance until he regains employment.

3 Children Suffocate In Abandoned Freezer

CLINTON, S.C. (UPI) — Three children suffocated Wednesday when the lid of an abandoned freezer in which they were playing slammed shut and trapped them inside, Sheriff R. Eugene Johnson said. Angela Davis, 3, Phillis Craig, 4, and Sylvia Craig, 3, had been in the freezer around two hours before their bodies were discovered.

Premier Bennett, but could not get an appointment, he said. The premier did chat briefly with the family on his way to supper Tuesday night, assuring attention to their plight.

The five of them had intended to camp on the legislature steps until their problem was solved, but all stayed overnight at the Salvation Army.

Mr. Speare said he telephoned the newspaper and radio station at Quesnel to cooperate in a public appeal to find Carriere a job.

"Renewed emphasis has been given to our efforts to secure additional road maintenance for our more remote roads," the member said.

"Unfortunately, on the basis of priority and population, these outlying areas cannot yet receive a municipal standard of service.

"I plan to keep a close watch on the welfare on this family to do what I can," he said.

U.S. SENATOR CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT
Canada's Wheat Sale to China Hit

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Kenneth E. Keating, New York Republican, said Wednesday he hopes the U.S. government will protest strongly against Canada's new sale of wheat to Communist China.

"It is incomprehensible to me why Canada persists in pursuing such a course," the member of the Senate internal security subcommittee said in an interview.

"There is no doubt in my mind that if it came to a real crisis, Canada would stand with us. But history has shown that if you continue to build up a potential enemy, eventually you are not able to appease it."

"It breaks down the strength of the free world when certain allies are willing—for dollar gain—to put that ahead of principles in which we all believe."

A state-department official said the department has no comment on the wheat sale.

In Ottawa, Wednesday, it was learned that in addition to the $75,000,000 wheat deal with China, announced earlier in the Commons, a seventh major grain trade is near completion.

SENATE SPEEDS ACTION

OTTAWA (CP)—Rumors of a general election just around the corner led the Senate to give quick approval to five bills Wednesday.

All must go to the Commons for consideration.

A government bill approves changes to the Canada Grain Act which establish statutory grades for rapeseed and mustard seed.

The other bills:

1. Confirm the amalgamation of the Canadian Indemnity Company and the Canadian Fire Insurance Company.
2. Permit the United Church of Canada to invest all or any portion of its moneys in common stock.
3. Incorporate the Greymac Mortgage Corporation of Hamilton, Ont.
4. Provide a French version of the name of Reliance Insurance Company of Canada—La Reliance Compagnie Canadienne d'Assurances.

STRACHAN LAMENTS DUNCAN PROJECT

Courthouse Losing Ground

Opposition leader Robert Strachan feels Duncan is further behind in its bid for a new courthouse than it was a year ago.

He failed during public works debate in the legislature Wednesday to get a promising answer from Works Minister W. N. Chant on the question of what work had been done towards a new court building in his home riding.

Mr. Strachan (NDP-CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle) said the minister publicly promised a new courthouse for the district in 1956. Each year since then he had asked the minister "when?" receiving the same non-committal reply each year until 1961.

Last year Mr. Chant said, "I will certainly do some work on it," Mr. Strachan quoted.

"What work has been done?" he asked the minister.

There was no reply.

The leader of the Opposition said, he would wait, and stood in his place with a smile on his face.

Premier Bennett protested, eyeing the clock as it crept toward 6 p.m. adjournment time.

"Let's be fair," he said. "No member puts a minister on the spot."

The member reworded his question: "At what stage is the planning?" he wanted to know.

There was still no answer.

Mr. Strachan accepted the suggestion that he drop the issue until after supper, and at 8:30 pressed the matter again.

Mr. Chant said he had no more comment to make.

"It's absolutely shocking, and as far as I'm concerned the minister is not entitled to his salary," the leader of the Opposition told the House. "He should be utterly ashamed of himself."

"He's cavorted all over the place; he's waffled all over the place and he's not worth the money he's paid," the indignant member said.

But the House voted the budget estimate anyway.

PLANNING AREA

Ratepayers Accuse Government

The B.C. government was accused Wednesday night of turning the Glen Lake Colwood-Langford area into a community planning area without consulting the ratepayers.

At a protest meeting in the Luxton Hall, some 300 angry ratepayers assailed the government for "imposing" planning, inspections and controls on the area without first taking a vote on the matter.

Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch defended the government's action.

"I've told you there is no sort of provision for a vote on this question. When an area declines to accept the responsibilities of local government, the province must step in."

He was answered with boos, hisses and shouts of "sit down."

"This is an attempt to impose the government's will on the district," cried one resident.

"If you don't want to take my word, that is your prerogative," answered Mr. Bruch.

"I'm trying to tell you there is no attempt to ram anything down anybody's throat. If you want us to wipe out the area planning board, we will — and the government will go it alone."

"Are you trying to sneak us in the back door and make a municipality out of us while we're not looking?" asked a woman in the audience.

"Never would we do anything like that," replied Mr. Bruch.

FINGERS CROSSED. Oak Bay workmen move a 20-year-old flowering plum tree that was impeding a municipal road-widening project. Parks experts say chances of the tree living are anywhere from 50 to 80 per cent. Municipal engineer Geofrey White says tree was pushed back seven feet and most roots were not badly disturbed. It was originally planned to remove it completely from the Hampshire Road site between Dalhousie and Bowker but protests by residents changed the plans.

1/2 AWAKE Nights

1/2 ASLEEP Days.

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed, then are dull and listless during the day. When kidneys slow down wastes and excess acids stay in the system. Disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you feel dull in the daytime—use DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Then you feel better—rest better—work better. You can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

RECEPTION TONIGHT

Three Exhibitions Opening at Gallery

The Art Gallery will hold a general reception tonight for members to mark the opening of three exhibitions.

Mrs. Ina Unthoff, well-known local artist, teacher and critic, is having her first exhibition in more than a decade. Two gallery rooms will be devoted to a selection of her recent drawings, oils and water colors.

Mrs. Dorothy Rice Jones, who has been painting in Victoria for more than 40 years, is having her first exhibition in this city.

The third exhibition will consist of color woodcuts by four Japanese masters of the 18th century. The prints are drawn from the collection of Oberlin College in Ohio.

Sunday Meeting On Bus Dispute

DUNCAN—A special meeting of IWA members has been called for Sunday at 2 p.m., to decide whether members will continue a $2 assessment for the IWA local emergency fund.

The assessment is the result of a referendum approved last month to assist 70 loggers idle since Jan. 2 in the free bus dispute with Hillcrest Lumber Company.

But the referendum was approved by a slim margin and since then it has been criticized by groups within the union.

Local president Weldon Jubenville said the meeting will "help clear up any further doubts about the referendum."

DUNCAN MAN HAS TICKET

Albert Colk, 955 McDonald Street, Duncan, is the latest Vancouver Island resident to draw an Irish Sweepstake ticket on a horse entered in Saturday's Grand National at Aintree, England.

Mr. Colk holds a ticket on Suffragette. No odds have been quoted on the horse.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE, MOTHER...

Some study alone, some in pairs, some in groups, and some not at all. Every student at Victoria College is by now aware of the coming exams which begin on April 12. Most students have buckled down to last-minute work. The reason for their being scattered in diverse attitudes all over the campus lawn is a combination of too little studying space and too much spring weather. First year education student Diane Pombert, 18, prefers to be alone with her tome. Maureen Hemmins, 19, in first year education, and Bob Fuller, 19, in first year arts prefer to be alone together. The technique of "group study" is demonstrated by first year education students Anna Maria de Hoog, 19; Ruth Hornby, 19; Gwen Nelson, 18, and Ruth's twin, Rose. A more casual approach to the whole distasteful exam business is taken by second year education student Frank Garnish, 20, Chuck Truscott, 19, in first year science, and Eric Spratt, 18, in first year arts.

... HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"Spring is really here," says Mrs. Florence Barr, 965 Trans-Canada Highway.

"I knew that this morning when I went into my garden and saw a ruby-throated hummingbird. Then I saw two beautiful brown-gold butterflies, and soon after that a wild bee... isn't it wonderful?"

It is, indeed.

One of those delightful people who have to be funny at all cost sent back his federal Income Tax form with the note:

"Thank you—but I've decided not to join your scheme this year."

About those old Victoria taverns we discussed last week a lady phoned to say she used to play the piano in the old Blue Post which stood on the site of the present Johnson Street liquor store.

But she wouldn't give her name. Nor would the gentleman who called to say that he once shot craps in the Lion Saloon on Chambers Street; or the elder citizen who confessed to having played poker in Howard's Saloon on the Esquimalt Road.

Victoria people are modest about these things!

A reference in this column to family trees brought a letter from Lawrence Wyatt of 624 Fisgard Street.

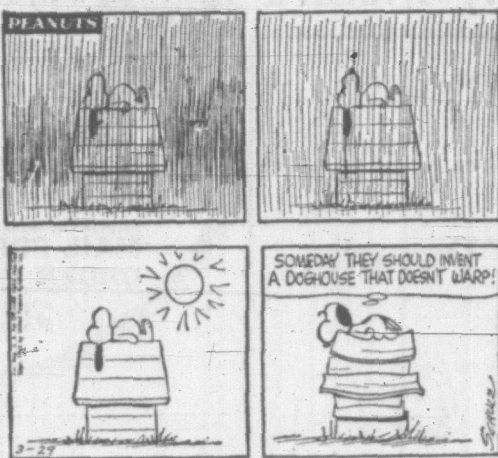

"My family tree," he writes, "includes one queen and six kings—Queen Matilda of England, William the Conqueror and five kings of Normandy reaching back to the 800s."

"Possibly there are other people in Victoria who can go back much further, and since this is Victoria's centennial year, it might be interesting to find out how many of our citizens have ancient lineage."

Miss E. H. Dowse and Miss Alice Cathcart flew out to Victoria from Northern Ireland last weekend.

They hired a taxi to take them round the city. They asked many questions and received intelligent answers. But one question went unanswered:

Why is Mystic Lane called Mystic Lane?

'AFTER YOU, MA'AM'

Fair Sex Parade Before Magistrate

It was "Ladies' Day" in city police court this morning.

Usually the domain of errant males and misguided youths, the appearance of a woman is relatively rare.

Not today. Three women faced Magistrate William Ostler in succession—two for sentencing and one for plea.

Jean Carling, 216 Gorge Road West, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft under $50.

Alleged to have shoplifted a pair of shoes from the T. Eaton Co., Miss Carling was released on her recognizance to appear for trial April 10.

Although unemployed, she was described by the magistrate as "seeming to have some roots in the community."

Sentence for Linda Jane Sanders, 194 Joseph Street, was adjourned for an additional week when the probation officer wished more time to continue his investigations.

Also known as Linda Jane McLeod, the woman had pleaded guilty March 22 to 13 counts of theft from her employer, the Colony Realty Company, 2968 Douglas Street.

Total sum stolen was $2,734.

She told court at the time she had to provide the necessities of life for herself and her four young children.

Largest single amount taken was $460.

The father of the four children is presently in the B.C. penitentiary.

FORGED CHEQUE

Lorene Rams, Beverly Hotel, was sentenced to two months for uttering a forged cheque.

The third woman of the morning to appear before the magistrate, she was given a lenient sentence.

"It was a deliberate offence, but I propose to be lenient," Mr. Ostler said.

Admitting it was no concern of the court, he warned her however to re-assess her partner in pending marriage.

"I suggest you take the time in custody to look over your future generally, and the decision about your proposed alliance," he said.

The woman had pleaded guilty Monday to forging a cheque at the Sweet Sixteen clothing shop.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today, Allan Millham, HMCS Antigonish, opening door when unsafe to do so, $15.

Robert Mettes, 1151 McClure Street, repairing auto on street, $20 and parking on wrong side of street, $10.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS INCREASING

A 6 per cent increase in motor vehicle accidents in the first month of 1962 was reported today by the Attorney-General's department.

During the same time, however, there were fewer injuries and fatalities, a statement from the motor vehicles branch said.

This year, 14 people died in January compared with 25 in January, 1961, and there were 757 injuries compared with 895 the year before.

There were 2,042 accidents in the first month of 1961 and 2,170 this year, accounting for the 6 per cent increase.

Property damage rose by $20,351 to a total $937,825.

Part of the increase could be traced to a 4 per cent jump in licence sales to 583,255, or 21,756 more registrations than up to Jan. 31 last year.

Switching Of Charge Irks Counsel

Last-minute switching of charges roused the ire of a defence lawyer in city police court today.

James Proudfoot termed "shocking" the late charge switch from public mischief for his client, Harold Thomson, 1214 Fort Street.

The new charge—intent to alarm another person by use of a telephone by information known to be false—arose out of a bomb hoax at Patricia Bay Airport March 17.

"I was informed just at 9 o'clock this morning the charge had been changed," Mr. Proudfoot said. "This is shocking—it shows little concern and consideration for counsel or defendant."

WITNESS IN COURT

Witnesses had all been brought to court, he said, and his client had already been detained in jail since a week ago Monday.

"I am inclined to agree with you," the magistrate said. "It is regrettable, and I sympathize with you."

Prosecutor Angus Smith shouldered full responsibility for the late switch, apologized, but said the incident could not be helped.

"On going into the matter the prosecution did not want to proceed with the other charge... it was not suitable," he said.

Thomson pleaded not guilty to the new charge and trial was set for Friday.

Refugees, 1957: Citizens Today

Hungarians Take Oath

Six of the Hungarians who came to Victoria from their strife-torn homeland in 1957 were sworn in as Canadian citizens in a solemn ceremony at the new courthouse on Cathedral Hill today.

They were among 26 citizens of 11 different nationalities who took the oath of allegiance from Judge J. B. Clearhue and were welcomed as new Canadians by Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral.

It was the first large-scale citizenship ceremony to be held in the new law courts, and the courtroom was crowded to capacity with representatives of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council and other interested groups.

The six Hungarians were Istvan Charles Gabor, Ferenc Tade Pendl, Gyorgy Peterhagyl, Ferenc Sz, Dalma Szy, and Nandor Gozdan.

PRESENTED BIBLES

All of the 26 new citizens were presented with Bibles on taking the oath of loyalty to Canada and the Queen.

Dean Whitlow, introduced by Mrs. H. L. Smith, president of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council, said he became a Canadian citizen himself just six months ago.

"Like you, I came here from a very fine country in the Old World and decided to settle here. I am convinced it was one of the best moves I ever made."

"This is a good country in which to live and in which to raise your children. It is a free country and a country of which we can be justly proud."

THREE LEGS

Dean Whitlow likened Canada to a three-legged milking stool which could not stand firm without any one of its three legs.

The three legs of Canada, he said, were (1) its freely-elected parliament (2) its law courts ensuring freedom and equality before the law (3) its churches offering freedom of worship.

"Take any one of these three legs away, and you have the beginnings of degeneracy in our system of democracy."

Dean Whitlow recalled that Victoria's first Christ Church Cathedral was built on the site of the new courthouse, while the present cathedral was only a short distance away.

"I am therefore doubly proud to welcome you to Canadian citizenship on this time-honored site."

Mrs. Smith thanked representatives of the many service groups who attended the ceremony, including members of the United Church Canadian Girls in Training, who wore their customary sailor style costumes.

The new Canadians were afterwards entertained at a coffee party in the YWCA clubrooms.

In addition to the six Hungarians, they were:

Georges Dravakopoulos (Greek), Reinert Hultberg and Basse Hultberg (Danish), Wilhelm Klammner (German), Francis Krip (Hungarian), Josef Liska (Czechoslovakian), Silvio Linzi (Italy), Coralia Malecki (German), Liane Maria Murray (German), Jacques Pouchet and Joette Pouchet (French), Hans Seemann and Ingrid Seemann (German), Selma Sero (Chinese), Jan Szymanska (Poland), Fred Staverman (Holland), Sophie Maria Tunn (German), Jans Rakisa (Estonian), Erna Rakisa (Latvian), Edwina Schmitt (Yugoslavian).

Contractor Discusses City Garage

Overtures for a contract to build a 400-car parking garage on View Street were made to City Hall Wednesday by Dominion Construction Company of Vancouver.

"No firm proposal was made—just overtures," an official admitted today.

The firm, which developed the Town and Country Shopping Plaza, previously offered to develop a civic parking garage on a lease-purchase basis but since then downtown ratepayers approved a $1,115,000 bylaw for construction of two garages.

DRIVE TEST HOLES

Test holes will be driven at the site, on the south side of View Street, opposite Standard Furniture, within the next week to determine foundation needs.

Designs for the structure are expected to be completed by a consulting engineer within two months.

Negotiations for the property, expected to exceed $100,000, "will be finished before then," the official said.

City council has an expropriation bylaw ready in case negotiations are deadlocked.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Can you tell me where a Canadian citizen has to apply to get a passport? M.L.

A. First obtain an application form from one of the local travel agencies; then mail it to: Passport Officer, The Department of External Affairs, Ottawa.

Q. Could you please tell me the top paying professions? J.H.

A. Doctors and surgeons rank as the best paid occupation with an average income of $15,737; engineers and architects, $14,982; lawyers and notaries, $14,123; dentists, $11,605; accountants, $11,633; other professionals, $6,476; artists, $6,237; investors, $6,139; salesmen, $5,570; business proprietors, $5,408. The average Canadian income is $4,113.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, questions, and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal problems. No will it attempt to tell a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Urban Renewal Discussion Set

Background discussion of various urban renewal problems will be held Friday by city council's urban renewal committee and officials of the municipal affairs department.

The city plans to start a renewal fund with a $100,000 appropriation this year and ask the senior governments for more.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Robert George Gibb and Richard Gray, of no fixed abode, were charged in B.C. Assize Court Wednesday with being, in possession of stolen goods.

They were said to have been in possession of a drill and power pack stolen from the T. Eaton Co. Canada Ltd., 1150 Douglas; a quantity of cigarettes stolen from Oak Bay Boat House, and a number of housebreaking implements, including rubber gloves and a screwdriver.

Defence counsel David Hummel, representing Gibb, challenged nine of the jurors who were called to hear the trial.

The trial continued today.

Police reported an accident at 3:50 a.m. today.

They said a car—apparently unlicensed—got loose at the Royal Auto Court, 230 Gorge Road, went down the lawn and came to rest over a cement retaining wall.

The wall is five feet high. Police said the car belonged to Oswald Eric Day, 711 Richmond Street. Damage was light.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will hold a public meeting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall. An illustrated talk on "Spring Flowering Trees and Shrubs in the University of Washington Arboretum" will be given by Brian Mulligan, its director.

In order to insure seats for them, members are asked to present their membership cards at the door.

The current Red Cross drive for $79,000 reached the half-way point Wednesday and officials expressed appreciation for the good response from the residential canvass.

Campaign chairman W. W. Lewis said the exact figure was $41,354.86. He called for a big push during this final week of Red Cross Month.

George Blais, 21, 3354 Browning, is in good condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital after suffering a broken leg and bruises Wednesday afternoon.

A motor scooter Blais was driving collided with a car at 4:55 p.m. at the intersection of Tyndall and Feltham. Driver of the car was Lawrence Smith, 1829 Ferndale, police said.

Further steps to curb the spread of kindergartens in Oak Bay have been taken by the zoning committee.

It was recommended to council that each kindergarten be restricted to 12 pupils. Larger establishments would require special zoning.

Council had earlier decided to amend existing bylaws to give it more control over kindergartens.

Prayer for Israel Group will meet in the prayer room of Central Baptist Church on Monday at 7:45 p.m.

Victoria Cycling Club will hold a social ride on Salt Spring Island on Sunday. The group will leave the Town and Country, Douglas Street, at 10 a.m. and go by way of Swartz Bay to Fulford, Vesuvius, Crofton and Maple Bay.

Municipalities Turn Down Civil Defence School Plan

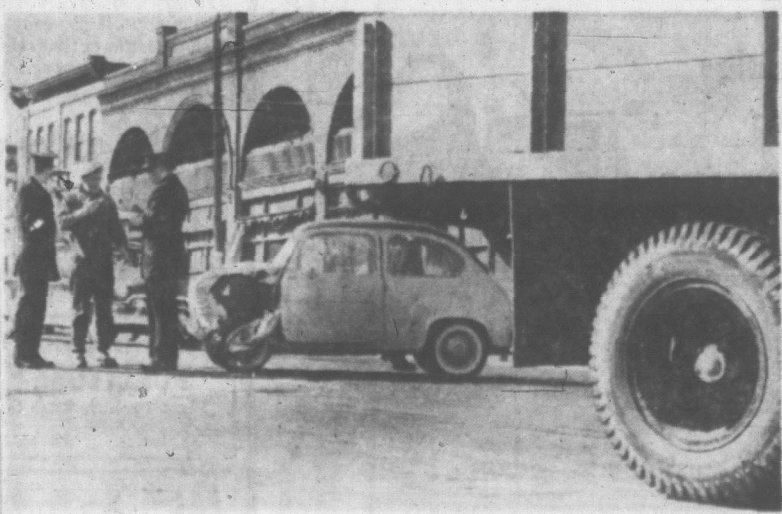

Greater Victoria municipalities have decided against separate training schools for civil defense, Saanich police chief Bert Pearson said today.

The decision negates a suggestion by Civil Defence National Headquarters that each municipality train its own organization.

"We feel the training of police service under one roof is less expensive and produces better results," the chief said. Four classes have been trained, and a fifth starts April 12 at 1940 Blanshard Street. Any physically fit males between 18-40 years old and at least 5 feet 8 inches tall are eligible.

Mr. Pearson said the training program is a good stepping stone to a full-time police career. Applicants may call EV 2-7276.

15 Minutes Daily Is Best Exercise Plan for Men

This week I am giving a few days to the men who read this column. More and more is known about the value of exercise in health.

Men and women cannot expect to take as much vitality or as fine physical condition, down the years with them without regular exercise of some sort.

Men are apt to be extremists in this. There are those who are called "week-end athletes". Such men lead very sedentary lives all week and then overdo on weekends. This can be damaging and even dangerous.

Fifteen minutes every day and then a walk of a mile or so is a much more beneficial course to pursue. Any exercise must be fitted to the ability of the individual. Fatigue should not occur as a result of exercise.

Today let me give you two exercises which men usually like. The following one is fine for the arm and chest and abdominal muscles. Lie on the floor on your abdomen. Bend your elbow and place your hands on the floor, one hand on each side of your chest. Straighten your arms, lifting your body from the floor. Your weight is supported by your hands and toes. Your body should be in a straight line from your head to your heels. Bend your left knee up close to your abdomen. Return to position. Continue. After a time do the same thing with your right leg.

The following exercise is a good abdominal flattener and strengthener. Lie on the floor on your back with your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise your arms forward, shoulder height, as you raise your legs and trunk from the floor, about halfway up. Ret. in arms, legs and trunk to the floor. The legs are kept straight throughout this exercise.

This is called the Jackknife. If you cannot lift your trunk and legs up to the halfway position at first, lift them as much as you can, even if it is only a few inches from the floor. Practice will improve your performance.

If any of the men who read this column are overweight or any of the women who read it have a husband who should lose a few pounds, you may want my Tubby Hubby Diet. Send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

REALLY CREAMS YOUR COFFEE

THE ONLY EVAPORATED MILK PROCESSED IN B.C.

Easy to make and look at—and on the calorie count, this dessert is sure to be a party favorite.

Baby Food Enters Party Picture

Guests invited for dinner or just for dessert and coffee will go home talking about cream fromage with plum sauce. It's moderately colored, yet nourishing for all the family.

The fromage is light and creamy, made with cream cheese, egg whites, gelatin and sugar. Molded in fancy shapes, it can be turned out on to a plate and topped with a ruby plum sauce for a really good-tasting dessert.

The surprise element of this recipe is the sauce.

Candidly speaking, it's a "steal" from baby's food shelf—using strained plums. This is a gem of a product, clear and sparkling with enough body to make it stand up in the dessert dish. Plums also make a colorful, full-of-flavor topping for custards, cheese cake, ice cream and blanc mange.

To make this dessert even more exciting for tiny guests, complement it with an intriguing assortment of biscuits, candied fruits and marshmallows. You'll see how they love it!

CREAM FROMAGE WITH PLUM SAUCE

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened, dash salt, 2 egg whites, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 (5 oz.) tins strained plums chilled.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve in boiling water. Beat cream cheese and salt until smooth; gradually add gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually beat in sugar. Beat gelatin-cream mixture until smooth; fold into beaten egg whites. Spoon into individual molds. Chill until set. Unmold. Top with strained plums. Makes seven servings.

Sum of $130 was realized and will be used to supply life jackets for Navy League cadets.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Norman Chattell, president. Mrs. T. Carrington was general convener.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. W. N. Chant, Mrs. A. C. Wurtele, Mrs. H. Davenport, Alderman Lily Wilson, Mrs. Pat Dufour, Mrs. M. Bridgman and Miss Kathleen Agnew.

Mrs. F. Findlay convoked home-cooking stall while in charge of catering were Mrs.

Bed Spread Custom Fit To Keep It Off the Floor

Our Tailor Trix winner this week is Mrs. Florence Remer, Detroit, Mich., who made this sensible suggestion.

"After reading of the terrible number of accidents caused in homes by people who trip and fall because of the two corners of the bed spread which lie on the floor at the foot, (my husband almost became one of these casualties), I proceeded to do something about it.

"To make a regular bed spread fit the foot of the bed, place the spread on the bed upside down. Grasp one bottom corner and lift until the side and the foot overlaps hang straight to the floor; then pin securely from the corner of the mattress to the floor. Now move to the other corner and do the same.

"Remove the spread and replace it right side up to be sure of the "boxy" effect. Now stitch the corners and cut off excess. The end results will be greater than you expected. It cuts bed-making time in half, and also makes a neat appearance."

Can't Make Border Print Fit On Curved Hem Line

"Dear Mrs. Farmer: I have some material with a border print which I would like to make up in a flared-type smock for my little girls. How can I cut this out so that the border will look right?"

Mrs. W. B. R.

Dear Mrs. W. B. R.: You will have to find a pattern with a gathered or pleated skirt instead because the hem line will have to be "straight" in order to use a border print. It is impossible to have the border straight with a curved hem line.

Captures Second Spot In Speaking Contest

By PAT DUFOUR

PO Lily Arnold, RCN, only woman in the eight finalists of the Golden Gavel contest held in the Council Chamber of City Hall last evening by the seven Toastmasters' Clubs of Victoria and Duncan, came second, missing the top place by a narrow margin.

Forty-one contestants had entered the public speaking contest which was chaired by George Bone who was assisted by Harold Ker and Tom Wilson. Judges were Mrs. Jack Gillis and Mrs. Ker, local Toastmistresses.

Except for the "butterflies" which most of us encounter when we enter the competitive field, this slim wren found nothing unusual in competing in a field where males have the numerical edge. She's been doing this ever since she joined the navy in 1952.

On the contrary, she hands a bouquet to the Royal Canadian Navy for the training which took her to runner-up position in last night's competition.

Public speaking is included in the syllabus of the branch officers' candidate course which she's been taking in HMCS Naden since last January.

The only other woman officer candidate, PO Norma Coleman, RCN, was in the large rooting section from Naden last evening.

This isn't surprising when PO Arnold explains that there were 26 officer candidate entries with six reaching finalist status.

"And... if I had to lose I couldn't lose to a better person," she sums up. "The winner, John Moss, was another Naden entry."

Frank B. Hilton (Toastmasters' Club) was third. Another toastmaster, Guy Wynn, joined the Naden finalists who were Stanley Darowski, Robert Clitheroe, John A. Chisholm and Aubrey L. Wright.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Arnold of Toronto, PO Arnold joined the navy after seeing an article on the Wrens in a weekend paper.

"The navy sounded interesting and I decided to give it a try. After 10 years I find it suits me to a T — giving me two things I was looking for — variety and good companionship."

Variety is right! So far she's served in the Nova Scotian establishments of Shelburne, HMCS Stadacona and HMCS Cornwallis, HMCS Bytown in Ottawa, Churchill, Man., and Moncton, N.B.

Although there are only four Wrens and two Wren officers in HMCS Naden, PO Arnold doesn't lack for friends.

"The navy boys have been good to me since I arrived here last October and their wives often invite me out. They're a grand bunch."

Still, she does admit to missing her family and looks forward to leave periods when she can join her parents and her eight-year-old brother, Tom.

Modestly she attributes most of last night's success to the fact that she spoke on a subject that means a great deal to her, "The Importance of Our Families."

Since she joined the officer candidate course two months ago time for relaxation and sports has been at a minimum. "You can't run around too much. We have three or four hours study to do every night — and that includes weekends too."

Now and again, she takes time out to play badminton and to bowl.

It seems only fitting that on her first visit to the West Coast she has realized yet another ambition — that of learning how to swim.

"After all, it seems a 'natural' for every navy type to be at home in the water."

The course ends in May and, if successful, PO Arnold is looking forward to serving as an executive Wren officer.

And, if enthusiasm counts for anything, she should be a good one!

Hundreds Attend Tea In Nurses' Residence

Every available inch of space was utilized in the Nurses' Residence of St. Joseph's Hospital, Wednesday afternoon, to accommodate hundreds of guests that attended the annual bridge and tea of the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital. Sixty tables of bridge were played in the auditorium, side rooms—even on the stage.

Proceeds of $400 were realized and will be donated to the hospital's building fund.

Guests were received by Mrs. P. W. Semenchuk, president. General convener was Mrs. M. M. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. E. J. Michaux.

A colorful arrangement of daffodils, forsythia, iris and carnations centred the head table at which presided Mrs. W. Mosedale, Mrs. G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, Mrs. W. Gordon Holms, Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh, Mrs. T. Atkinson and Mrs. G. E. Sammon.

To add to the excitement of the tea hour, Mrs. Gene Lother gave teacup readings.

Prior to the afternoon of bridge, George Morgan gave an interesting and informative talk on the game.

Serving the bridge players were Mrs. S. Howard, Mrs. H. Jack, Mrs. J. Fiddess, Mrs. Roy Atkinson, Mrs. H. Hayward, Mrs. H. Jacobson, Mrs. W. Bowes, Mrs. E. J. Thomson, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. A. J. Taylor.

Other serveurs were Mrs. J. McKenna, Mrs. A. Effa, Mrs. F. Kreigal, Mrs. C. Barlow, Mrs. A. Johnson, Mrs. C. Baker and Mrs. A. L. Robinson.

In charge of receipts were Mrs. C. N. Day, Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. B. G. Ryan, Mrs. W. I. Boone and Mrs. J. Chuddeston.

Serving on the refreshment committee were Mrs. L. F. Sim, Mrs. W. Rothery and Mrs. F. Sedgwick. Mrs. P. Sallaway and Mrs. C. Rose handled preparation of tea.

Mrs. A. Boden convoked home cooking stall. She was assisted by Mrs. F. Thompson, Mrs. W. Rogers and Mrs. J. Blair.

Miss Carol Ward, left, gives a preview of the newest hair style to come out of the United States, "Dancing Hair." On the right, Miss Jill McCorkall shows the Canadian style of tomorrow, the "S" line, the soft curves of the letter S giving back highlight to her coiffure. Both styles were photographed at Maison Georges Limited. Miss Ward is the receptionist at the Fort Street store, and Miss McCorkall, a stylist.

Local Hair Stylists to Compete In Mammoth Show on Mainland

Many leading hair stylists from Victoria beauty shops will converge on Vancouver, Sunday, to take part in a two-day convention and trade show, organized by the Hairdressers' Association of British Columbia. Affair will take place in the Hotel Vancouver.

Hon. Leslie R. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson will be among the distinguished guests and Mr. Peterson will present the Master Artist Award (given to the top stylist of the show) when the convention ends on Monday evening.

A new hair style, the "S" line, which was created in British Columbia, is certain to be one of the "stars" in the show. A touch of flattering femininity is achieved by following the curves of the letter S in both side and back shaping.

It's challenger from the United States is "Dancing Hair," dream-child of New York stylist, Mme. Marguerite E. Buck. An effect of continual motion is achieved by clever upward shaping.

Both will be seen in several variations in the show which the association claims will be "the largest annual convention and trade show of any trade association."

Hair stylists predict that both will reach the top of the popularity poll in quick time. As one hairdresser explains, "They're the latest thing in easy-to-keep hairdos and do away with heavy back combing. Already the swing is away from the bouffant look."

Mme. Buck will be the convention's guest stylist. She was born in Switzerland, being educated in Rome, Milan, Florence and Paris. She became internationally famous when she won the First Award at the International Competition in Paris.

At the time of the presentation she was the youngest coiffure designer to attain this distinction.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Open and Shut Case!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son is so hen-pecked people are waiting for feathers to sprout. The girl he married is the most stupid girl on earth. People ask me what he ever saw in her. She doesn't know the first thing about how to keep house, do the washing, iron clothes or make a meal. And our son either pretends he doesn't notice or else he has caught this stupidity from her. Should I try to open his eyes? It hurts me to see a boy who was raised in a clean and orderly home living the way he is.

YOU CAN HAVE HER

DEAR YOU: Thank you. I don't want her. But if your son doesn't mind, it's all right with me, and it shouldn't bother you, either.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked in a doctor's office for many years and am unable to handle a certain aggressive female patient. Other nurses have told me they, too, have encountered the problem, and are stumped. What are we supposed to say when a woman barges in without an appointment (not an emergency) and says, "I've known the doctor for years. Just tell him I'm here and I know he'll see me!"

TRULY STUMPED DEAR TRULY: Give the doctor her message. If a woman does this more than once, take your Rx from the doctor on how to treat her.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bachelor, 35, and have been dating a divorcee for two years. She has two sons, 14 and 10. The oldest one and I get along fine, but the 10-year-old and I don't seem to hit it off. I never feel at ease or enjoy myself when this kid is around. He always has a sarcastic remark to make, and to tell you the truth, I can't stand him. His mother knows it and says her first duty is to her children and if I can't learn to love both her boys, we can't marry. She's a terrific woman, and I've met lots of women in my life, but this one is for me. Her first husband (divorced) was a lady's man and her youngest son looks exactly like him. Could this have anything to do with my disliking him?

IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: Probably. Don't blame a 10-year-old boy for reacting to your hostility toward him with sarcasm. He can't help it if he "looks like" his father. Try to understand the boy and treat him fairly. If you do, he will react with friendliness. If you can't accomplish this, be prepared to lose the woman.

Responsibility By Workers Would Boost Productivity

Individual productive capacity within the Canadian nation should receive the attention of the National Productivity Council, the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs said in a recent brief to the council.

"While the national productive capacity has increased in the last 10 years, due chiefly to technological advances, individual job output has declined," the federation said.

If Canadians are going to expect to compete in the world's markets they would have to assume some responsibility on an individual basis, for the welfare of the nation.

The brief was presented to chairman of the Productivity Council, George deYoung, Toronto industrialist, by Miss Una MacLean, Calgary, president of the 7,000-member federation.

Dealing with the development of Canadian industry and business, the federation urged the council to examine the growing trend to "demand more money for less work," when considering factors contributing to the country's present economic problems.

"The full effects of costly strikes in industry should be made known to the public, in terms of lost wages and buying power, production losses, lost markets and lost jobs."

Ownership within the nation's industrial complex should also receive the attention of the council, the brief continued, where changes occur in the form of mergers or amalgamations. Effect of such mergers and take-overs on production and on jobs should be studied.

Focusing attention on the problem of training workers to meet the needs of a highly technological society, the federation pointed to their own program of fostering training and education as a means by which national organizations could aid the work of the council.

They also pointed to two national surveys on pension benefits and implementation of equal pay legislation currently being carried out by their clubs.

Both factors have a bearing on national productivity. There is, they said, "a tragic waste of productive capacity and managerial ability on the part of women because of the prevailing situation where ability of the individual is not considered on an objective basis."

"Equal pay in practice is a condition precedent to equal status and equal opportunity," the federation declared.

Victoria Man Married in Prince George Ceremony

A wedding of interest in Victoria took place recently in St. Michael and All Angels Church at Prince George when Miss Glenny Willa Acres exchanged vows with Peter Brian Jubb. Canon T. D. R. Allen officiated.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Acres of Prince George and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jubb, 324 Dallas Road.

Pink and white carnations were at the altar for the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Fred Goudy sang "The Wedding Prayer" during signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of heavy white satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, edged in pearls and brilliant embroidery. The gown featured a fitted bodice, lily point sleeves and full skirt.

HEIRLOOM LACE

For "something old" the bride carried a hand-made lace handkerchief which had belonged to her great-grandmother.

Full-skirted gowns in vermilion velvet were chosen by bridesmaids, the Misses Adena Thony and Wendy Carpenter. Complementing their ensembles were toning pixie headresses, white accessories and crescent bouquets of white tulips.

Mark Baldo was best man and ushers were Jerry Ninchuk and William Murdoch.

Pink blossom and white wedding bells decorated the parish hall for the reception which followed. Sprigs of apple blossom were on individual tables.

Pink and white carnations and white candles in silver candelabra flanked the three-tier wedding cake that centred the bride's table.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. J. W.

McCluskey, Mrs. Duncan Smith and Mrs. W. B. White, all of Victoria, and Mrs. Robert Park, Vancouver. Harry Loder was master of ceremonies and toast was proposed by Gus Lund.

Miss Claudia Blue was in charge of the guest book and servers were the Misses Karen and Gail Loder, Trudy Nelson, Pat Torgerson, Connie Williams and Betty Lund.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip in southern British Columbia and northern United States, the bride donned mushroom-toned French wool crepe suit, gold and brown accessories and corsage of yellow tea roses.

Newlyweds will make their home in Prince George.

Models Give Low-Down on Men

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ask a batch of French models what they think of American men and the answers range from the coating on their shoes to the contents of their billfolds.

We asked just that question of 10 mannequins who work steadily in the glittering salons of Paris' leading designers.

All, on a visit to the United States, some for the first time, had some observation to make about the American male.

A couple of the 10 beauties raised their eyebrows in a gesture only a Frenchwoman could translate. One observed that American men are "more attentive" than the French. Another commented that "Women in America know how to run their men." Overheard, in the background, "Maybe too much so."

Still another noticed that "Here, the men's shoes shine. Not in Paris. American men generally dress better than the European, but such silly hats. The brims, they look foolish."

The most candid comment came from one dark-eyed beauty who said, "Plus d'argent" — free translation, "Here the men have more money."

Several of the 10 models are married and have children, almost all are multilingual, most of them are tall and thin, as American models are traditionally, and all are established stars in the Paris fashion industry.

They are Marie-Therese Pouch, plus 30, top mannequin with Pierre Balmain; Marie France Yip, 23, top model at

Michel Goma; Viviane Porte, 29, Venetian-born, with the House of Lanvin; Elsa Manu-sardi, 28, born in Teheran of Swedish parents;

Jacqueline Doloy, 24, with the House of Jacques Heim; Patricia Prunonosa, 28, freelance model formerly with the firms of Dior and Fath; Vesna Havranek, 24, a Croatian by birth; Dominique Delfuss, of Austrian heritage; Nina Garnier, 33, Russian born, and Olivia Cazeaux, 32, now freelancing but formerly with Ricci, Carven and Fath.

The 10 visited the eastern United States under the sponsorship of two of France's top industries, the champagne producers and the Chambre Syndicale, which is the association of leading French designers. Their appearances were for benefit of U.S. charities.

Trying to keep up with the 10 was something like trying to keep tabs on 10 children at Disneyland—the models were enthralled with everything American style from television ("In France, it is not funny") to hotel room service.

One mannequin had ordered a soft drink and the waiter arrived with "three pounds of ice, five grande glasses and a tres petite bottle of ginger ale."

"But where," she asked him, "is the party?"

The 10 who model clothes which eventually become part of wardrobes of the world's wealthiest women were impressed with the American woman's fashion sense.

Three in Every 100 Children 'Retarded,' Say Physicians

By AL COLLETTI

ABOARD THE EMPRESS OF ENGLAND (CP)—Mental retardation is one of the major problems encountered by doctors treating Canadian adults and children, a Halifax specialist said today.

Dr. William Cochrane, associate professor of pediatrics at Dalhousie University, told a meeting of family doctors that three out of 100 children are affected by some form of mental retardation.

There are about 500,000 mentally retarded persons in Canada.

Dr. Cochrane delivered a paper to the College of General Practice of Canada during a medical assembly which is being combined with an eight-day cruise from New York to Bermuda and Nassau.

Three hundred and 50 general practitioners and their wives spent Wednesday ashore in Bermuda.

Dr. Cochrane said prenatal causes account for about 65 per cent of the mental retardation total. Another 8 per cent can be linked with events about the time of birth, and post-natal causes are implicated in the remaining 27 per cent.

Viral infections may be a cause in prenatal mental retardation. Some congenital anomalies and cases of mental retardation may be due to the expectant mother taking drugs, Dr. Cochrane said.

Dr. F. S. Brien, head of the department of medicine at the University of Western Ontario, said many potent drugs for lowering blood pressure are available, but care must be taken while medication is withdrawn.

In a paper on hypnosis, Dr. J. F. Edwards, of Winnipeg, urged family doctors to make more use of hypnosis.

In a demonstration before the doctors, he quickly hypnotized Dr. D. J. Hastings, of Winnipeg.

Dr. Gerald Halpenny, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said the graduates of Canadian medical schools should be able to speak both English and French. He pointed out that Queen Mary Veterans Hospital in Montreal is one of the few hospitals in the world where undergraduates in medicine are taught in two languages.

NATIVE OF QUEBEC

Dr. Halpenny, a specialist in internal medicine, is a native of Quebec.

"It would be a great medical triumph if Canada, on her 100th birthday, possessed a single medical organization which embraces all the doctors of our two ethnic groups," he said.

"Within the framework of this organization the preservation of the languages and ideals of our separate French and English heritages would be safeguarded to grow and flourish side by side."

COMMUNIST COMRADES?—No; resemblance to Fidel and Nikita is strictly coincidental. The look-alikes are bearded Frank Werber, manager of The Kingston Trio, and Lud Gluskin, who is musical director for CBS in Los Angeles.

'Prophetic' Last Speech Quoted on Late Sitzings

Court Will Go To Sons

The spirit of George Hobbs "spoke" to the Legislature Wednesday.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan read a part of Mr. Hobbs' last speech—the speech he wrote the night before he died Jan. 31.

The words were "prophetic," said Mr. Strachan.

The former NDP-CCF member for Revelstoke had intended to speak about last-minute, drawn-out night sittings on the issue of social welfare.

Mr. Hobbs was referring to last year's welfare debate, which went to 5 a.m.

He would have said: "The performance that went on last spring should never be repeated."

"Those of us who would not make studies for a cardiologist were almost ready for the Crease Clinic."

Mr. Hobbs died of a heart attack.

WENT TO 2:05 A.M.

Mr. Strachan was talking about the welfare debate which went to 2:05 a.m. Wednesday before Premier Bennett suddenly cut it off in the midst of a furious row over letters which Comox School Dan Campbell said came from girls in Willingdon School. They criticized NDP-CCF Dave Barrett of Dewdney.

Mr. Strachan said the premier cut off debate to get Mr. Campbell "off the hook" when the Opposition charged the letters were a put-up job.

He said this only proved again the government couldn't be trusted, because an hour earlier the premier told Camille Mather (NDP-CCF

Repeated remands of the Sons, arrested in mass raids during the weekend and transported to the prison by bus from Nelson, are expected until the Crown is ready to proceed. The Freedomites, including members of the sect's ruling 52-man fraternal council, are charged with intimidation of government and with conspiracy.

In deciding to take court to the Sons, officials recalled an experience in 1953 when 140 Freedomite women being held at Oakalla were taken to a special court. Some of the women chanted and disrobed.

"We don't want that experience repeated," said one police official.

ESQUIMALT READIES 3-DAY CELEBRATION

Esquimalt's three-day golden jubilee August 24-26 will feature a parade involving floats and the armed services.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. Aug. 25 and wind from Naden to Gorge Park, Coun. Geary Salmon said Wednesday night.

On the same day there will be sports activities and competitions until 9 p.m. when there will be a navy sunset ceremony at Bullen Park followed by a dance at the sports centre.

Persons born in Esquimalt before 1912 will be guests at a banquet Aug. 24 and at the dedication of a memorial cairn in High Rock Park, Aug. 26.

Other projects include an addition to the Fraser Street Athletic Hall, and a commemorative booklet outlining Esquimalt's history.

Kamloops Actors Win High Praise

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The most modern, if not the most avant garde, play in the festival, a well-made play brilliantly written and maintaining a remarkable balance between comedy and drama.

With these words Toronto adjudicator David Gardner endorsed the choice by North Kamloops PTA Theatre Wing, of Willis Hall's "The Long and the Short and the Tall" as their Dominion Drama Festival entry.

Third offering in the B.C. Regional of the DDF, it was a stimulating production that gripped and entertained a good-sized audience at Oak Bay Junior High School, Wednesday night.

Mr. Gardner described the performance directed by Tom Kerr, as one filled with rough, virile enthusiasm and dramatic tension.

The action of the play takes place in 1942 in a jungle hut in Malaya; the characters, seven members of an isolated British military patrol and one Japanese prisoner.

Describing the jungle hut as "a microcosm of the world," Mr. Gardner said the play asked us all to take a stand against war—"but it is not a diatribe; the axe is ground much too softly."

Concerning the production, the adjudicator felt that Act I had been somewhat over-punctuated and he noted deviations in the dialects, but he commented that Mr. Kerr's staging was often arresting and showed a real flair.

UNFALTERING DIALOGUE
The dialogue throughout had demonstrated an almost unfaltering and wonderful capacity to be like a ping pong game, he remarked.

Of the cast as a whole, Mr. Gardner commented, "Bless 'em all."

He found many qualities that delighted him among the youthful cast; Roy Inouye playing the Japanese prisoner had some quite breath-taking moments; Frank Glassen a very sensitive quality and reality of emotion.

PROFESSIONAL?

But George Girvan and Gordon Dancer, playing a Scot and a Welshman, he described as "two professional performances."

Girvan's "MacLeish" was "dour and splendid." It had had spontaneity of thinking and a God-given sense of timing, he said. The same was equally true of Dancer as "Evans."

The Act II climax of the play belongs to "Pte. Bamforth" and here Blain Fairman had come into his own. Mr. Gardner felt he was an emotional, rather than a comedy actor and praised his graceful control of movement.

Tonight Victoria Intimate Stage will present Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot."

Following the performance Mr. Gardner will announce the winner among the four plays and will award, besides the festival trophy, scrolls for best performance by an actress and actor, a trophy for best performance by a supporting player, for best director and best visual production.

The play is divided into two major parts. The first concerns the lives of the characters in Nanaimo. It ends when all are killed and the second section takes place in the court of heavenly judgment, presided over by the five sins.

Full Salary To Be Paid Mrs. Brown

The legislature Wednesday unanimously approved paying a full salary to Mrs. Buda Brown, minister without portfolio, who has missed most of the session through illness.

Mrs. Brown had an operation on her spine early this month.

She hasn't been in the House since.

All parties approved her full session allowance on a motion from Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Vatican Will Display Famed 'Pieta' at Fair

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John has consented to a request by Francis Cardinal Spellman to send Michelangelo's famed sculpture of the Pieta to the New York World's Fair in 1964.

The pontiff's consent to allow the famous statue of the Madonna and the dead Christ to leave St. Peter's Basilica was obtained during an audience with New York's Roman Catholic archbishop.

The life-size marble statue, which is located above an altar in the basilica, has never before been out of Italy.

It was sculptured by the renaissance master when he was a young man and is considered one of his greatest works. Millions of people from all parts of the world have seen it.

It will be displayed in a Vatican pavilion at the World's Fair.

The 400th anniversary of Michelangelo's death, will be celebrated during the fair.

A high Vatican official also announced that a statue of the Good Shepherd dating from the fourth century will also be sent to the fair. The statue is kept in the Lateran Museum next to the Church of St. John Lateran.

Little Hope of Open Gov't House

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said Tuesday night he had talked with Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes about opening Government House to the public, but so far he hadn't been able "to come to any arrangement."

He was answering a plea from Waldo Skillings (SC-Victoria) for an "open house."

"Some thought has been given to it," Mr. Black admitted.

But he didn't appear optimistic.

Anyway, he added, he was sure the grounds are always open to the public.

MOST REV. JAMES M. HILL

WELL LOVED

Bishop Hill Dies Suddenly

Catholics and Protestants alike reacted with shock today at the sudden death of Most Rev. James M. Hill, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria.

The 63-year-old prelate was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning suffering from a heart attack. Despite doctors' efforts he died at 7:20 a.m.

The funeral will be held Tuesday with Pontifical Requiem Mass will be sung in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Bishop Hill had been under doctor's care at intervals since his first serious heart attack in October, 1951.

"I am deeply moved and grieved," said Most Reverend Harold E. Sexton, Anglican Archbishop of B.C., to hear of the death of Bishop Hill whom I have been privileged to regard as a friend and brother.

Added to Community Life

On behalf of Mayor R. B. Wilson, who is in Vancouver, Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell spoke for the people of Victoria.

"He added much to the life of the community," he said, "he was respected by all and will be greatly missed."

Former Mayor P. B. Scudrah said he would be a real loss to the community.

A close friend and confidant of the late bishop is city Alderman Michael Griffin. It was on Bishop Hill's recommendation that Ald. Griffin was a "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice" a Papal honor.

Consecrated in Maritimes

Bishop Hill was installed Sept. 6, 1946, in solemn ceremonies at St. Andrew's by Most Rev. W. M. Duke, Archbishop of Vancouver.

He had been consecrated to the Bishopric July 25 of that year in Chatham, New Brunswick, by Most Rev. Archbishop Adalberto Antonietti, Apostolic Delegate.

His appointment coincided with the 100th anniversary of the Diocese which was erected by Papal Bull dated July 24, 1846.

Eddie In Seclusion

NEW YORK (UPI)—Singer Eddie Fisher, who has denied that his marriage to Elizabeth Taylor is on the rocks, was in seclusion "with friends" today after a two-day rest at a private East Side hospital.

Politicos 'On Payroll Of Gamblers'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General Robert Kennedy said today the U.S. justice department has strong information that major political leaders in three areas of the U.S. "are on the payroll of big-time gamblers and racketeers."

He did not elaborate, and gave no indication of the specific communities to which he was referring.

"Kennedy made the statement in testifying before the Senate Judiciary committee for legislation that would permit evidence to be obtained by wiretapping for use in fighting major crime and subversion."

He told the senators that the three areas are in the south, the east and the west.

"The need for legislation is urgent," he said, adding that "the existing situation with respect to wiretapping is chaotic."

Blockade Lifted

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP)—The French Army lifted its blockade of the European workers' suburbs of Bab el Oued today. Groups of men and women gathered on street corners to swap experiences as troops in half-tracks, armored cars and jeeps slowly patrolled the narrow streets.

There was no visible hostility between the troops and the inhabitants who attacked army patrols in the section last Friday killing 15 French soldiers and wounding more than 90.

After the outbreak the army sealed off the section and restricted the 50,000 inhabitants to their homes. In a house-to-house search they arrested some 7,000 persons, mostly youths and men between 16 and 40, and seized more than 1,000 arms of all kinds and large quantities of munitions and explosives.

GARBAGE MEN STRIKE

The streets of Bab el Oued were littered with garbage because Moslem garbage men had refused to enter the hostile quarter. Scores of automobiles were riddled by bullets and one had been flattened by a tank.

Many shops reopened. Shopkeepers surveyed broken plate glass windows and other wreckage left by the battle.

French flags draped in black hung from many balconies. The black was a sign of mourning for the 53 European civilians killed Monday in a demonstration organized by the right-wing Secret Army Organization in sympathy for the inhabitants of Bab el Oued.

The secret army vowed revenge against the troops and warned: "All our armed operators henceforth will be acts of justice. . . Nothing and no one will stop us."

Although extremely humble by nature, he nevertheless by his understanding of his office in life, brought to that position a dignity which was the pride of us all.

"After almost 16 years in our midst, Bishop Hill will not soon be forgotten in this, the city and diocese he so dearly loved and cherished."

More Bombs Annoy French

PARIS (Reuters)—A plastic bomb badly damaged the home of a Paris architect known for his liberal views early today following resumption of a "plastic offensive" by the right-wing terrorist Secret Army Organization Wednesday night.

Between 9 p.m. and midnight 14 explosions damaged the homes of army officers, journalists, politicians—and a movie theatre.

During his tenure here he twice journeyed to Rome and was received in audience at Castel Gandolfo by Pope Pius XII and later in the Vatican by Pope John.

Born in Chatham, he was educated at public school there, at St. Thomas College and then at the Grand Seminary, Quebec.

After ordination as a priest in 1923 he served as a professor at St. Thomas' until 1927 when he was appointed rector. From September of that year until June, 1946, he was also pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas parish in Campbellton, N.B.

He was the 12th bishop in this diocese, which includes Vancouver Island and the offshore islands. He was the third bishop to die in office.

His predecessor, Most Rev. J. C. Cody, was appointed coadjutor-bishop of London, Ont.

Kennedy dealt with these other matters:

Steel: The president said the contract between the steel workers and management has not been agreed to formally, and he wants to make no statement until this is done. But he commended both the steel companies and the union for the hard work they have done to reach an agreement without threat of a strike.

Argentina: Precise information on the government overturn is lacking and it would be unwise, Kennedy said, to comment now on such matters as the effect on the U.S.-backed Alliance for Progress aid program for Latin America.

Berlin: Answering a question whether there is "any hope involved" in the fact the Russians have never pressed the issue to a showdown, Kennedy said he sees no reason for a letdown in vigilance, but he feels both countries realize the danger of "excessive action."

Requests by prisoners for permission to attend the trials court was set up in the prison itself since none of the prisoners had been removed.

Requests by prisoners for permission to attend the trials went unanswered.

Among the prisoners were Manuel Artime, civil chief of the invasion; Carlos Miro Cardona and Jose Varona, sons of two exiled counter-revolutionary leaders; and Ulices Carbo, formerly assistant director of a now-closed Havana evening newspaper, Prensa Libre.

BENNETT, FLEMING MEET

Breakthrough Due on Power?

BY FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett and federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming in Vancouver today were meeting in what could be their "breakthrough" negotiations on the Columbia River power project.

The premier flew to Vancouver beaming with the "good will" he brought back from Ottawa meetings with Mr. Fleming. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, and Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton earlier this month.

The climate is undoubtedly mild—and at long last it is believed B.C. and Ottawa are close to an agreement on how the Columbia should be financed.

They have to be.

Both sides are under extreme pressure.

Ottawa, facing a federal election probably in June, wants a settlement before putting the Conservative record before the people.

Premier Bennett, enmeshed in legal actions over the B.C. Electric takeover, has to get a power project going and try to fulfill his two-river policy.

The legal muddle surrounding B.C. Electric puts some doubt about the future of the Peace River scheme.

The government appears confident that legislation to be given royal assent when the B.C. session ends tonight will snip away these legal ribbons.

LITIGATION MAY END

It expects that court challenges to last August's B.C. Electric takeover, including an order putting the company in the hands of a receiver, will be dropped.

However, this would depend on the courts.

The government's troubles won't be over if the receiver-ship is cancelled, however, as the former shareholders of B.C. Electric will probably then try to have the whole take-over legislation—this year's and last August's—declared unconstitutional.

All these factors, plus U.S. impatience to get cracking, are the background for today's Columbia talks.

It is clear that both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fleming have realized they must come to terms—and it might as well be sooner than too late.

'Reasonable Chance Of Summit Parley'

GENEVA (AP)—External Affairs Minister Green flew home to Ottawa today after declaring there is "a reasonable chance of a summit meeting" as a result of the 17-power disarmament talks here.

Green, who flew home in an RCAF plane with top members of his staff, told reporters:

"I am quite pleased with the progress made in the disarmament conference so far."

"The general atmosphere is quite favorable and a constructive spirit is being shown."

"I think there is a reasonable chance of agreement on some points and a reasonable chance of a summit meeting."

"We are quite pleased with the present American-Soviet chairmanship of the conference and I am quite willing to return to the discussions any time it seems warranted."

Green was active in seeking areas of possible agreement outside the framework of a general disarmament treaty in the hope of improving the international climate.

He said that during the meetings with Rusk "a certain progress has been made in clarifying areas of possible agreement and disagreement."

'Useful Talks'—Gromyko

GENEVA (Reuters)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today he has had "useful" talks in Geneva with State Secretary Rusk and looks forward to contacts between the United States and Russia.

Gromyko, last of the Big Three foreign ministers to leave the 17-power disarmament conference here, made the comment at the airport before flying back to Moscow.

Later, at a working session of the conference, the Russians accepted two U.S. suggestions for incorporation in a draft preamble to any disarmament treaty.

The U.S. proposals, accepted by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, urged that states abide by international agreements and refrain from actions that might cause tension. It also called for disarmament to be accompanied by "reliable procedures" for settling disputes in accordance with the United Nations charter.

WORK ON DRAFT

Delegates agreed that suggestions for the preamble should be given to the conference co-chairmen, the U.S. and Russia, by Monday. It is hoped the co-chairmen will have a final draft preamble prepared by about Wednesday.

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home returned home Tuesday after being here for almost three weeks for the disarmament parley and talks outside the conference.

Gromyko said he had a series of "useful" meetings with Rusk on Germany and Berlin, turning the latter "a question which is posed by life itself and which cannot be evaded."

He said that during the meetings with Rusk "a certain progress has been made in clarifying areas of possible agreement and disagreement."

New Argentina Chief Named

Times News Services

BUENOS AIRES—Argentina's military leaders today deposed President Arturo Frondizi and sent him to prison, triggering clashes between police and demonstrators here.

Police riot squads threw tear gas at people who demonstrated in Plaza de Mayo, the square in the heart of Buenos Aires, shouting "we want the president."

Police also sprayed the area with fire hoses as several hundred demonstrators continued to mill around the centre of the city.

Frondizi was arrested by a naval officer at his luxurious private home in a Buenos Aires suburb and driven in a motorcade of five cars to the capital's airport.

As soon as the 53-year-old president was arrested, he was rushed aboard an Argentine Air Force plane for the island of Martin Garcia, a military reservation 30 miles northeast of Buenos Aires in the Plate River estuary. It was on this island that the military held dictator Juan Peron after they overthrew him in 1955.

The three armed forces chiefs announced that Senate President Jose Maria Guido, next in line of presidential succession under the constitution, would succeed Frondizi.

MAY NOT ACCEPT

Although military sources said Guido had accepted the presidency, there was no immediate announcement from Guido that he would take the post.

Hector Gomez Machado, who heads Frondizi's Intransigent Radical Party in the Chamber of Deputies, said he would not.

Guido is also a member of the Intransigent Radicals.

It was not immediately clear whether Guido, if he took over, would have full presidential power or be a figurehead for a military junta determined to crush Peronism. The general belief was that the military would at least insist on counter-signing all decrees.

The ousting of Frondizi, whose four years in office had been beset by constant conflict with the military, was the culmination of a crisis resulting from startling and sweeping Peronist victories in congressional and provincial elections March 18.

Frondizi had allowed the Peronistas to campaign as a party for the first time since the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron in 1955. Communists and Castro supporters got behind them, while the anti-Communist forces remained split between the Intransigent Radicals and the rival People's Radicals.

ACCUSED OF BUNGLING

The chiefs of Argentina's three armed services charged Frondizi brought about this latest crisis by bungling leadership and declared in a communique explaining the president's ouster:

"The Argentine crisis has stalled the order for 2,850 Canadian railway boxcars valued at $30,000,000. Negotiations have been going on between three Canadian companies and the Argentine Transport Board for the sale by the Canadian firms of the large number of boxcars, but until some stability has been restored in the Argentine the discussions on the details have been held up. It was learned today."

Prince Philip decided today to leave Argentina Friday—three days early—because of the country's military coup.

The prince at first planned to leave today but this was changed at the last moment, British embassy sources said.

Reuters earlier today erroneously reported he had left for Uruguay.

Crisis Stalls Boxcar Order

OTTAWA—The Argentine crisis has stalled the order for 2,850 Canadian railway boxcars valued at $30,000,000.

Negotiations have been going on between three Canadian companies and the Argentine Transport Board for the sale by the Canadian firms of the large number of boxcars, but until some stability has been restored in the Argentine the discussions on the details have been held up. It was learned today.

Gas in the sewers was discovered Wednesday night and a 10-block area was cordoned off because of fears of an explosion. It wasn't until this morning that the firemen traced the gasoline to the leaking tank.

High pressure hoses were used to flush the gasoline through the sewers and into the St. Lawrence River.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE, MOTHER...

Some study alone, some in pairs, some in groups, and some not at all. Every student at Victoria College is by now aware of the coming exams which begin on April 12. Most students have buckled down to last-minute work. The reason for their being scattered in diverse attitudes all over the campus lawn is a combination of too little studying space and too much spring weather. First year education student Diane Pombert, 18, prefers to be alone with her tome. Maureen Hemmings, 19, in first year education, and Rod Fuller, 19, in first year arts prefer to be alone together. The technique of "group study" is demonstrated by first year education students Anna Maria de Hoog, 19; Ruth Hornby, 19; Gwen Nelson, 18, and Ruth's twin, Rose. A more casual approach to the whole distasteful exam business is taken by second year education student Frank Garnish, 20, Chuck Truscott, 19, in first year science, and Eric Spratt, 18, in first year arts.

... HERE ... AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

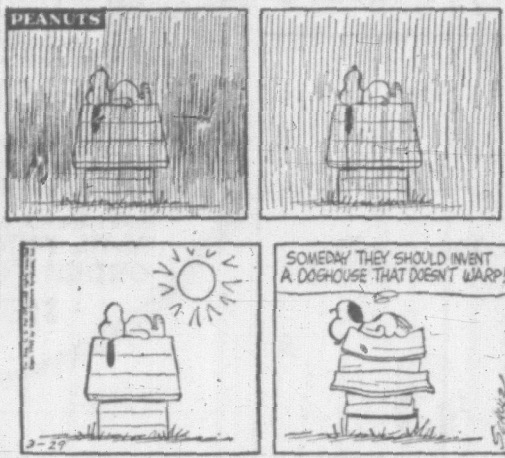

"Spring is really here," says Mrs. Florence Barr, 965 Trans-Canada Highway. "I knew that this morning when I went into my garden and saw a ruby-throated hummingbird. Then I saw two beautiful brown-gold butterflies, and soon after that a wild bee... Isn't it wonderful?"

It is, indeed. One of those delightful people who have to be funny at all cost sent back his federal Income Tax form with the note: "Thank you—but I've decided not to join your scheme this year."

About those old Victoria taverns we discussed last week a lady phoned to say she used to play the piano in the old Blue Post which stood on the site of the present Johnson Street Liquor store. But she wouldn't give her name. Nor would the gentleman who called to say that he once shot craps in the Lion Saloon on Chambers Street; or the elder citizen who confessed to having played poker in Howard's Saloon on the Esquimalt Road. Victoria people are modest about these things!

A reference in this column to family trees brought a letter from Lawrence Wyatt of 624 Fisgard Street. "My family tree," he writes, "includes one queen and six kings—Queen Matilda of England, William the Conqueror and five kings of Normandy reaching back to the 800s. Possibly there are other people in Victoria who can go back much further, and since this is Victoria's centennial year, it might be interesting to find out how many of our citizens have ancient lineage."

Miss E. H. Dowse and Miss Alice Cathcart flew out to Victoria from Northern Ireland last weekend. They hired a taxi to take them "round the city. They asked many questions and received intelligent answers. But one question went unanswered: Why is Hystic Lane called Hystic Lane?

'AFTER YOU, MA'AM'

Fair Sex Parade Before Magistrate

It was "Ladies' Day" in city police court this morning. Usually the domain of errant males and misguided youths, the appearance of a woman is relatively rare. Not today. Three women faced Magistrate William Ostler in succession—two for sentencing and one for plea. Jean Carling, 216 Gorge Road West, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft under $50. Alleged to have shoplifted a pair of shoes from the T. Eaton Co., Miss Carling was released on her recognizance to appear for trial April 10. Although unemployed, she was described by the magistrate as "seeming to have some roots in the community."

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS INCREASING

A 6 per cent increase in motor vehicle accidents in the first month of 1962 was reported today by the Attorney-General's department. During the same time, however, there were fewer injuries and fatalities, a statement from the motor vehicles branch said. This year, 14 people died in January compared with 25 in January, 1961, and there were 757 injuries compared with 805 the year before. There were 2,042 accidents in the first month of 1961 and 2,170 this year, accounting for the 6 per cent increase. Property damage rose by $20,351 to a total $937,825. Part of the increase could be traced to a 4 per cent jump in licence sales to 583,255, or 21,556 more registrations than up to Jan. 31 last year.

Refugees, 1957: Citizens Today

Hungarians Take Oath

Six of the Hungarians who came to Victoria from their strife-torn homeland in 1957 were sworn in as Canadian citizens in a solemn ceremony at the new courthouse on Cathedral Hill today. They were among 26 citizens of 11 different nationalities who took the oath of allegiance from Judge J. B. Clearhugh and were welcomed as new Canadians by Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral. It was the first large-scale citizenship ceremony to be held in the new law courts, and the courtroom was crowded to capacity with representatives of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council and other interested groups. The six Hungarians were Istvan Charles Gomory, Ferenc Tade Pendli, Gyorgy Peterhagyi, Ferenc Szy, Dalma Szy, and Nandor Gozdan.

Contractor Discusses City Garage

Overtures for a contract to build a 400-car parking garage on View Street were made to City Hall Wednesday by Dominion Construction Company of Vancouver. No firm proposal was made—just overtures, an official admitted today. The firm, which developed the Town and Country Shopping Plaza, previously offered to develop a civic parking garage on a lease-purchase basis but since then downtown ratepayers approved a $1,115,000 bylaw for construction of two garages.

Switching Of Charge Irks Counsel

Last-minute switching of charges roused the ire of a defence lawyer in city police court today. James Proudfoot termed "shocking" the late charge switch from a public mischief for his client, Harold Thomson, 1214 Fort Street. The new charge—intent to alarm another person by use of a telephone by information known to be false—arose out of a bomb hoax at Patricia Bay Airport March 17. "I was informed just at 9 o'clock this morning the charge had been changed," Mr. Proudfoot said. "This is shocking—it shows little concern and consideration for counsel or defendant."

PRESENTED BIBLES

All of the 26 new citizens were presented with Bibles on taking the oath of loyalty to Canada and the Queen. Dean Whitlow, introduced by Mrs. H. L. Smith, president of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council, said he became a Canadian citizen himself just six months ago. "Like you, I came here from a very fine country in the Old World and decided to settle here. I am convinced it was one of the best moves I ever made."

WITNESS IN COURT

Witnesses had all been brought to court, he said, and his client had already been detained in jail since a week ago Monday. "I am inclined to agree with you," the magistrate said, "it is regrettable, and I sympathize with you." Prosecutor Angus Smith shouldered full responsibility for the late switch, apologized, but said the incident could not be helped. "On going into the matter the prosecution did not want to proceed with the other charge... it was not suitable," he said. Thomson pleaded not guilty to the new charge and trial was set for Friday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today, Allan Millham, HMCS Agitator, opening door when unsafe, to do so, $15. Robert Mettes, 1151 McClure Street, repairing auto on street, $20 and parking on wrong side of street, $10.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Robert George Gibb and Richard Gray, of no fixed abode, were charged in B.C. Assize Court Wednesday with being in possession of stolen goods.

They were said to have been in possession of a drill and power pack stolen from the T. Eaton Co. Canada Ltd., 1150 Douglas; a quantity of cigarettes stolen from Oak Bay Boathouse, and a number of housebreaking implements, including rubber gloves and a screwdriver.

Defence counsel David Hummel, representing Gibb, challenged nine of the jurymen who were called to hear the trial.

Police reported an accident at 3:50 a.m. today.

They said a car—apparently unoccupied—got loose at the Royal Auto Court, 230 Gorge Road, went down the lawn and came to rest over a cement retaining wall. The wall is five feet high. Police said the car belonged to Oswald Eric Day, 711 Richmond Street. Damage was light.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will hold a public meeting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall. An illustrated talk on "Spring Flowering Trees and Shrubs in the University of Washington Arboretum" will be given by Brian Mulligan, its director. In order to insure seats for them, members are asked to present their membership cards at the door.

The current Red Cross drive for $79,000 reached the half-way point Wednesday and officials expressed appreciation for the good response from the residential canvass.

Campaign chairman W. W. Lewis said the exact figure was $41,354.86. He called for a big push during this final week of Red Cross Month.

George Blais, 21, 3354 Browning, is in good condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital after suffering a broken leg and bruises Wednesday afternoon.

A motor scooter Blais was driving collided with a car at 4:55 p.m. at the intersection of Tyndall and Feltham. Driver of the car was Lawrence Smith, 1829 Fernside, police said.

Further steps to curb the spread of kindergartens in Oak Bay have been taken by the zoning committee.

It was recommended to council that each kindergarten be restricted to 12 pupils. Larger establishments would require special zoning. Council had earlier decided to amend existing bylaws to give it more control over kindergartens.

Prayer for Israel Group will meet in the prayer room of Central Baptist Church on Monday at 7:45 p.m.

Victoria Cycling Club will hold a social ride on Salt Spring Island on Sunday. The group will leave the Town and Country, Douglas Street, at 10 a.m. and go by way of Swartz Bay to Fulford, Vesuvius, Crofton and Maple Bay.

Municipalities Turn Down Civil Defence School Plan

Greater Victoria municipalities have decided against separate training schools for civil defence, Saanich police chief Bert Pearson said today. The decision negates a suggestion by Joint Defence National Headquarters that each municipality train its own organization. "We feel the training of police service under one roof is less expensive and produces better results," the chief said. Four classes have been trained, and a fifth starts April 12 at 1940 Blanshard Street. Any physically fit males between 18-40 years old and at least 5 feet 8 inches tall are eligible. Mr. Pearson said the training program is a good stepping stone to a full-time police career. Applicants may call EV 2-7276.

U.S. Firm Plans Hydrofoil Ferry Service Here

The U.S. Maritime Commission agreed today to underwrite 75 per cent of the cost of a $750,000 hydrofoil passenger vessel to operate between Seattle and Victoria, it was announced today. Representative Thomas Pelly (R-Wash.) said service will start next fall if plans work out. The deal was reported in a dispatch from the Seattle Times, Washington, D.C., correspondent. The story said the FMC approved the application of Northwest Hydrofoil Lines Inc. and gave a commitment for mortgage insurance covering 75 per cent of the $750,000 construction cost.

The bout probably will be staged in the open-air Ullevi Stadium in Goteborg, Sweden, June 17.

Four Workers Killed In Boiler Blast

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Four workmen were killed, one was missing and 14 persons were injured here today in a boiler explosion that ripped apart a huge terra cotta pipe manufacturing plant.

Three bodies were recovered from the rubble of the Pomona Terra Cotta Company. One injured man died a few hours after he was taken to hospital.

$500,000 Haul of Cocaine From Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—Federal narcotics agents announced today the seizure of a half million dollars worth of cocaine, believed smuggled from Cuba, and the arrest of five persons.

Included in the haul was four and one-half pounds of cocaine. Agents said its value on the retail market would equal $500,000.

Four men and one woman, all Cuban born, were arrested.

'Reasonable Chance Of Summit Parley'

GENEVA (AP)—External Affairs Minister Green flew home to Ottawa today after declaring there is "a reasonable chance of a summit meeting" as a result of the 17-power disarmament talks here.

Green, who flew home in an RCAF plane with top members of his staff, told reporters: "I am quite pleased with the progress made in the disarmament conference so far."

"The general atmosphere is quite favorable and a constructive spirit is being shown."

"I think there is a reasonable chance of agreement on some points and a reasonable chance of a summit meeting."

"We are quite pleased with the present American-Soviet chairmanship of the conference and I am quite willing to return to the discussions any time it seems warranted."

Green was active in seeking areas of possible East-West agreement outside the framework of a general disarmament treaty in the hope of improving the international climate.

Later, at a working session of the conference, the Russians accepted two U.S. suggestions for incorporation in a draft preamble to any disarmament treaty.

The U.S. proposals, accepted by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, urged that:

Inspection Central Issue In Test Ban—Kennedy

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy said today the United States cannot accept any agreement to ban nuclear tests without adequate inspection.

Kennedy told his press conference that State Secretary Rusk's reports indicate the problem of inspection has emerged as the central issue in negotiations with the Soviet Union to ban nuclear testing, and that the Russians have flatly rejected any effective inspection.

He said the United States wants a nuclear test-ban treaty and will continue to strive for one, but will insist on an adequate inspection technique.

That was part of Kennedy's answer to a reporter's question on whether the U.S. now is definitely committed to going ahead with atmospheric nuclear tests in the Pacific.

He said the U.S. position is unchanged, which means his earlier statement that the tests will proceed in the absence of an agreement with Russia still stands.

Kennedy dealt with these other matters:

BENNETT, FLEMING MEET

Breakthrough Due on Power?

BY FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett and federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming in Vancouver today were meeting in what could be their "breakthrough" negotiations on the Columbia River power project.

The premier flew to Vancouver beaming with the "good-will" he brought back from Ottawa meetings with Mr. Fleming, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, and Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton earlier this month.

The climate is undoubtedly mild—and at long last it is believed B.C. and Ottawa are close to an agreement on how the Columbia should be financed.

They have to be.

UNDER PRESSURE

Both sides are under extreme pressure.

Ottawa, facing a federal election probably in June, wants a settlement before putting the Conservative record before the people.

Premier Bennett, enmeshed in legal actions over the B.C. Electric takeover, has to get a power project going and try to fulfill his two-river policy.

The legal muddle surrounding B.C. Electric puts some doubt about the future of the Peace River scheme.

The government appears

confident that legislation to be given royal assent when the B.C. session ends tonight will snip away these legal ribbons.

It expects that court challenges to last August's B.C. Electric takeover, including an order putting the company in the hands of a receiver, will be dropped.

However, this would depend on the courts.

The government's troubles won't be over if the receivership is cancelled, however, as the former shareholders of B.C. Electric will probably then try to have the whole takeover legislation—this year's and last August's—declared unconstitutional.

All these factors, plus U.S. impatience to get cracking, are the background for today's Columbia talks.

It is clear that both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fleming have realized they must come to terms—and it might as well be sooner than too late.

That's what could make the meeting in Vancouver a breakthrough.

End of Session Expected Tonight

The legislature is expected to end its longest-ever session at 8 p.m. tonight.

That's the target time set by Premier Bennett.

He announced it in the House Wednesday night at the 11:50 adjournment.

The 45-day session is the longest on record. It started Jan. 25.

Last year's session was 41 sitting days. (This does not include weekends.)

Mr. Bennett won consent of the Opposition for his prorogation target—though there's no absolute guarantee that debate will be over by then.

There is one last fight to be faced—an Opposition attack on oil magnate Frank McMahon in debate on the estimates of the transport department.

Vancouver East NDP-CCF MLA Alex Macdonald will tee off this afternoon.

Apart from this there remain only the estimates of the Public Utilities Commission, the MLAs' salary vote, and some Opposition resolutions to debate.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will be standing by to perform the official prorogation ceremony.

At that time he will give royal assent to the 96 bills approved by the legislature-making them law.

1,100 Face Cuban Trial

HAVANA — Soldiers surrounded nearby Principe Prison today where more than 1,000 anti-Castro prisoners captured in last year's abortive rebel invasion of Cuba were to be put to trial.

Across the street 200 persons—apparently friends and relatives—gathered under the surveillance of four police cars.

The government had announced the start of the trials for 9 a.m. but there was no word on whether they actually got under way. Presumably the court was set up inside the prison itself since none of the prisoners had been removed.

Among the prisoners were Manuel Artine, civil chief of the invasion; Carlos Miro Cardona and Jose Varona, sons of two exiled counter-revolutionary leaders, and Ulises Carbo, formerly assistant director of a now-closed Havana evening newspaper, Prensa Libre.

Argentina: Precise information on the government overturn is lacking and it would be unwise, Kennedy said, to comment now on such matters as the effect on the U.S.-backed Alliance for Progress aid program for Latin America.

Berlin: Answering a question whether there is "any hope involved" in the fact the Russians have never pressed the issue to a showdown, Kennedy said he sees no reason for a let-down in vigilance, but he feels both countries realize the danger of "excessive action."

Bishop Hill Dies Suddenly

Catholics and Protestants alike reacted with shock today at the sudden death of Most Rev. James M. Hill, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria.

The 63-year-old prelate was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning suffering from a heart attack. Despite doctors' efforts he died at 7:20 a.m.

The funeral will be held Tuesday when Pontifical Requiem Mass will be sung in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Bishop Hill had been under doctor's care at intervals since his first serious heart attack in October, 1951.

"I am deeply moved and grieved," said Most Reverend Harold E. Sexton, Anglican Archbishop of B.C., "to hear of the death of Bishop Hill whom I have been privileged to regard as a friend and brother."

"His devotion to the church and his deep humility were, to me, his outstanding characteristics."

"I offer my respectful and sincere sympathy with the people and clergy of the great church which he loved and served so well."

Archbishop Sexton was joined by Rev. G. R. Easter, head of the Greater Victoria Ministerial Association.

Mr. Easter said clergy in the association would want to "express their deep sympathy to the Roman Catholic people of this city on the death of Bishop Hill. He was a very gentle and gracious soul."

Bishop Hill was one of the kindest men I have ever known," said Ald. Griffin. "His cheerfulness and consideration for his fellow men was something which was an example to all."

"Although extremely humble by nature, he nevertheless by his understanding of his office in life, brought to that position a dignity which was the pride of us all."

"After almost 16 years in our midst, Bishop Hill will not soon be forgotten in this, the city and diocese he so dearly loved."

Asks Law Change On Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said today the U.S. justice department has strong information that major political leaders in three areas of the U.S. "are on the payroll of big-time gamblers and racketeers."

He did not elaborate, and gave no indication of the specific communities to which he was referring.

Kennedy made the statement in testifying before the Senate judiciary committee for legislation that would permit evidence to be obtained by wiretapping for use in fighting major crime and subversion.

He told the senators that the three areas are in the south, the east and the west.

"The need for legislation is urgent," he said, adding that "the existing situation with respect to wiretapping is chaotic."

POLICE BATTLE CROWDS

New Argentina Chief in Office

Times News Services

BUENOS AIRES—Argentina's military leaders today deposed President Arturo Frondizi and sent him to prison, triggering clashes between police and demonstrators here.

Police riot squads threw tear gas at people who demonstrated in Plaza de Mayo, the square in the heart of Buenos Aires, shouting "we want the president."

Police also sprayed the area with fire hoses as several hundred demonstrators continued to mill around the centre of the city.

Frondizi was arrested by a naval officer at his luxurious private home in a Buenos Aires suburb and driven in a motorcade of five cars to the capital's airport.

As soon as the 53-year-old president was arrested, he was rushed aboard an Argentine Air Force plane for the island of Martin Garcia, a military reservation 30 miles northeast of Buenos Aires in the Plate River estuary. It was on this island that the military held dictator Juan Peron after they overthrew him in 1955.

The three armed forces chiefs announced that Senate President Jose Maria Guido, next in line of presidential succession under the constitution, would succeed Frondizi.

GUIDO ACCEPTS

After some hesitancy Guido announced that he would accept the post.

Hector Gomez Machado, who heads Frondizi's Intransigent Radical Party in the Chamber of Deputies, said he would not. Guido is also a member of the Intransigent Radicals.

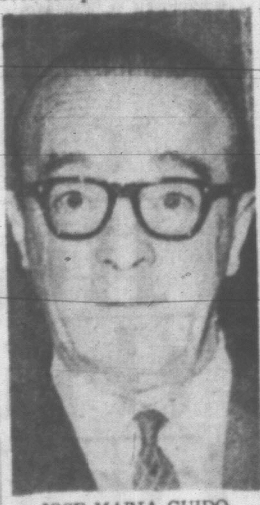

It was not immediately clear whether Guido, if he took over, would have full presidential power or be a figurehead for a military junta determined to crush Peronism. The general belief was that the military would at least insist on counter-signing all decrees.

The ousting of Frondizi, whose four years in office had been beset by constant conflict with the military, was the culmination of a crisis resulting from startling and sweeping Peronist victories in congressional and provincial elections March 18.

Peron himself was not at home to reporters seeking his reaction to the coup in Argentina.

Frondizi had allowed the Peronistas to campaign as a party for the first time since the overthrow of dictator Juan Peron in 1955. Communist and Castro supporters got behind them, while the anti-Communist forces remained split between the Intransigent Radicals and the rival People's Radicals.

ACCUSED OF BUNGLING

The chiefs of Argentina's three armed services charged Frondizi brought about this latest crisis by bungling leadership and declared in a communique explaining the president's ouster:

Ex-Dictator Keeps Silent

MAJOR (AP)—Associates of Gen. Juan D. Peron said today that as a result of the ouster of President Arturo Frondizi, the ex-dictator might fly to Uruguay or Chile "to be closer to the scene of our operations."

Other sources said the takeover by the anti-Peronist military might "prompt Peron to stay as far as possible from his homeland."

Peron himself was not at home to reporters seeking his reaction to the coup in Argentina.
